Boyd Quizzing Delays Handing Case To Jury

Denies Any Intention Of Killing Wife

Prosecution Hits At Testimony Dealing With Death Scene

A denial that he intended to kill Nancy Lee Boyd when he hurled a jack handle at her Nov. 5 along Beaver Creek came under sharp cross - examination from the prosecution today at the first degree murder trial of William P. Boyd Jr. at Lisbon.

Boyd, 23, of Pennsylvania Ave. Ext., returned to the witness stand to complete his version of how his 18-year-old estranged wife was beaten and shot at the isolated rendezvous.

Jury Delay Seen

The unanticipated lengthy questioning of Boyd moved the closing stages of the trial — final arguments and Judge Raymond Buzzard's charge to the jury — to late this afternoon or more probably to Wednesday when the panel will begin deliberations.

The jury of 10 women and two men will be presented five choices of verdicts—guilty of first degree murder, which carries the death penalty, guilty with recommendation of mercy, not guilty, guilty of second degree and guilty of manslaughter.

Dressed in a charcoal gray suit, white shirt and blue and maroon tie, Boyd spoke in a moderate voice with a soft drawl, occasionally rubbing his nose or coughing slightly into his hand.

Climax Of Argument

Under questioning from Atty. Robert Kapp, defense counsel, Boyd said he threw the auto jack handle at the climax of an argument over Nancy Lee's threat to have an aunt adopt their 11-month-old daughter, Tania.

"I said you'll not adopt that baby to anyone. She started hollerin', and I hollered, 'that baby is mine.'

"She shouted it wasn't mine—that's when I threw the jack handle...I lost control of myself."

Prosecutor William Brokaw began his cross-examination at 9:45 this morning after direct examination was completed by Kapp, co-defense counsel with Atty. Ben Berman.

Boyd testified this morning that he had been changing a tire on his small car in the narrow lane near the state line where he and Nancy Lee — separated Aug. 10— had gone after he picked her up at her Dresden Ave. home about 3:30 a. m.

He said they had driven around and had gone to the creek area to

Bids Voided For Southern Local School

'62 Appropriation Approved And Clerk's Pay Raised

The Southern Local Board of Education Monday night formally rejected all bids received for construction of a new high school and directed Robert Beatty, architect, to re-advertise the project.

The board also adopted the 1962 appropriation and granted another salary increase to the clerk at the meeting at Wayne School.

The action to re-advertise for new bids was taken on recommendation of T. V. Utterback, director of the buildings division of the Ohio Education Department. The first bids are some $40,000 above what is anticipated.

A bond issue of $356,000 and a state grant of $404,000 will finance the structure to be erected on Route 39 east of Salineville.

The appropriation totals $566,475.59. This is an increase of $164,802, but Franklin School District now is considered part of the district and was figured in the appropriation.

Mrs. Bernice Hirst, clerk, was granted a salary increase of $500. She received an increase of $180 in November. Her salary now is $3,300. It is a part-time job.

Four were hired as school enumerators. They are Mrs. Susie Davis for Wayne district, Mrs. Sarah Ahlborn for Salineville, Mrs. Agnes McKenzie for No. 16

Rough Washington St. Pavement Smoothed

Crews today began removing and relaying rough brick pavement on Washington St. between Church Alley and E. 4th St., beginning of similar work that will be performed throughout the city as manpower is available, Safety-Service Director Robert Owen said.

In the Washington St. job, street department employes are removing rough stretches of pavement in spots where street car rails were taken up many years ago. After the bricks are removed, a new sand surface is spread. Any broken or damaged bricks are replaced, then the pavement is laid again.

If rotted street car ties are found under the pavement, they will be removed, Owen said.

Official Asks Walk Repair, Building Law

Enactment of a city building code was suggested to Council Monday night in the annual report of Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper.

The solicitor proposed passage of the ordinance "at the earliest possible time," asserting that the last session of the State Legislature amended the law so that the regulations in their entirety will not have to be published as a legal notice. The cost of full publication would have run into several hundreds of dollars.

About a year ago, the City Planning Commission suggested enactment of building codes, but Council replied it lacked funds to pay for publication of the lengthy legislation. Under the new law, the code may be published in abbreviated form. Residents wishing information on the law could examine the full text at City Hall.

Cooper also proposed that the city begin a general long-range program of sidewalk repair. Property-owners whose walks need repair could be notified to perform the work, but if they fail to do so the city would make the repair and bill it to the owners on the tax duplicate, Cooper explained.

If sidewalks are in good repair, pedestrians would be safeguarded from injury and the possibility of civil actions against the city would be lessened, Cooper said.

The solicitor also reported he prepared 42 ordinances and 30 resolutions for Council action in 1961. He supervised issuance of $166,000 in municipal bonds for the city's share of the freeway project. Special assessment bonds were issued to finance the Beechwood sanitary sewer project.

The solicitor's office also supervised purchase of the Ceramic theater, razed for establishment of a parking lot. Asst. Solicitor Richard J. Clark prosecuted criminal cases in Municipal Court, Cooper pointed out.

Fire Damages Rural Home In Elkton Area

LISBON — Volunteer firemen quelled a blaze in the kitchen section of the eight-room home of Walter Johnson of Pine Hollow Rd. near the Elkton Grange Hall about 9:57 a. m. after calling for the Civil Defense tanker, apparently for more water.

The blaze started near a furnace in the cellar. There was no estimate of the damage but it may reach $2,000. The furnace may have been to blame.

School Board Hikes Budget For Hancock

$3,314,600 Set Up, Showing $125,475 Gain In New Term

The Hancock County Board of Education Monday night appropriated a total of $3,314,660 for operating the county school system in 1962-63.

The amount represents an actual increase of only $125,479 although last year's appropriations totaled $2,919,181.

Acting on a request by county teachers, the board agreed to pay their salaries for next year over 12 months, instead of in 10 separate checks as in the past.

This means the Board was required to carry over $270,000 from last year's appropriations in order to meet the teachers' payroll in July and August, accounting for a large share of the difference between this year's budget and that of last year.

The board expects to raise $1,824,050 of the new budget from property taxes in the county, less $91,202 for delinquents.

The rates for the current levy will remain the same as last year, Supt. Robert H. Hall said. They are 45.9 cents for each $100 assessed valuation in Class I property, 91.8 in Class II, and $1.83.6 in Classes III and IV.

Rates will also be decreased slightly next year on a $5¼ million bond issue approved two

Neff And 3 Others Win Court Reversal

HARRISBURG — The State Supreme Court today reversed the conviction of a former state senator and three other men in an alleged Beaver County highway kickback scheme.

The state's high court acted on an appeal by ex-Sen. Samuel G. Neff and Robert Yoho, Leon Kaleta and James Macry, all of Beaver County.

Neff and Macry were convicted of conspiracy to extort and Yoho and Kaleta of extortion and conspiracy.

The state accused the four of collecting money from contractors who leased equipment to the State Highway Department in Beaver County. Neff is a former chairman of the Beaver County Democratic Committee and former manager of the State Workingmen's Compensation Fund.

WEIRTON — Police Capt. Andrew Olenick has warned merchants and residents to be on the lookout for bogus $5 bills. The serial number of the bills is F-46567411. He said the face plate bears the series number K-214 and the back plate has the number, 2172.

Auto Injures City Child, 6, On Ravine St.

Boy Runs Into Path Of Vehicle On Way Home From School

A 6-year-old Thompson Hill youngster is in "fairly good" condition today at City Hospital with multiple injuries suffered Monday at 3:55 p. m. when struck by an auto as he ran across Ravine St. near Vine St.

Henry Craig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wayne Craig, 219 Thompson Ave., suffered possible fractures of the skull and the right leg and abrasions and cuts of the face and skull, police said.

The boy was struck by a 1958 two-door sedan driven by Charles E. White, 54, of 205 Beechwood St., officers reported.

White told police he had pulled away from an auto parts company on Bradshaw Ave. and was headed north on Ravine St. toward the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd." when he saw two boys running along the left side of the street.

Henry ran into the street in front of the car, the motorist said. White said he attempted to halt, but could not because of wet pavement. The boy was struck by the left side of the car's bumper, he told police. The child was taken to the hospital in an ambulance.

Steven Craig, 9, who was with his brother at the time of the mishap, also gave police a report. He said he and his brother were en route home from school when the younger boy started to run

Frondizi Moves To Bar Peronists

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—President Arturo Frondizi moved today to outlaw all Peronist activity in Argentina again in an effort to stave off military leaders angered by the election gains of the ex-dictator's followers.

Government sources said Frondizi was drafting a decree to nullify all victories of Peronist candidates who scored a nationwide sweep in gubernatorial and congressional elections Sunday.

Frondizi already has decreed federal control in five of the 10 provinces where followers of deposed dictator Juan D. Peron won governorships and placed army commanders in temporary control.

The beleaguered president was reported drafting a new decree which would not only cancel out Peronist election victories but ban singing of Peronist songs, displaying of Peronist banners and any other demonstrations by followers of the ex-president.

Frondizi moved swiftly as a two-headed regime emerged in the nation threatened with civil chaos.

The president struggled to keep his four-year-old civilian regime alive, but across the street from his executive mansion in the War Ministry, the chiefs of the armed services forged a three-man junta to coordinate military plans to deal with the gravest crisis Argentina has faced since Peron's ouster in 1955.

The military was reported split between one faction apparently satisfied with the measures Frondizi was taking and another group demanding absolute repudiation of all Peronist movements immediately, backed up by military force if necessary.

Frondizi displaced the governors of five of the provinces in which the Peronists won control and put the local army commanders in charge. He also named civilian intervenors.

Early today it was learned that the military commanders were to turn over the reins of government to the civilian appointees when they reached the provincial capitals. Some military leaders were reported demanding that the military remain in control of the provinces.

The provinces put under federal control were Buenos Aires, Tucuman, Rio Negro, Santiago del Estero and Chaco.

It was understood that some military garrisons including army garrison and naval establishments had been put on the alert. Military commanders flew to Buenos Aires from all parts of the nation to confer.

Frondizi's action to appease the military touched off a chorus of protests from his own party, its allies and many foes. The mammoth General Confederation of Labor repudiated the government's action against the Peronist victory and said this had freed the union from any restraint at show-

Moslem Riots Fatal To 52

Incidents Occur After Cease-Fire

ALGIERS (AP)—French headquarters said Moslems rioted in scores of Algerian towns and villages Monday and today and fired on French forces in at least four areas.

Highly placed sources said 52 were killed in St. Denis du Sig in western Algeria in one incident alone when Moslem crowds clashed with Moslem soldiers in the French service. Authorities released no over-all casualty figures.

The incidents came close on the heels of Monday's cease-fire halting the 7½-year Algerian nationalist rebellion. Moslems had been under orders from their leaders to avoid incidents, and there was no immediate explanation for the disorders.

The incidents flared up several hours after the cease-fire in the Algerian war went into effect at noon Monday.

The army stressed, however, that most demonstrations in towns and villages of the Algerian interior were peaceful and that in general organized rebel guerrilla groups were observing the cease-fire.

"There has been no operational clash between our troops and rebel bands since the cease-fire went into effect," one French army officer said.

Bill Cleared To Borrow For Payrolls

Council Waits Late For 2 Members To Enact Legislation

Council delayed adjournment of its meeting until near midnight Monday to muster enough votes to give immediate passage to an ordinance authorizing the city to borrow up to $45,000 against future tax receipts, assuring that the municipal payroll would be met in full today.

With a minimum of six affirmative votes required to give the emergency legislation immediate approval on one reading, only five members were present when the meeting got under way at 8 last night.

Council transacted most of its other business, then recessed shortly after 9 to await the arrival of Councilmen Robert W. Sample Jr. and Floyd Murray, who were at work on the 3-11 shift at the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co.

The meeting convened again a few minutes after 11. The ordinance was passed unanimously and Council adjourned at 11:30.

The legislation provides that Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate may borrow money "from time to time as necessary" up to the maximum amount, issuing six-month city notes to banks.

The city will be required to bor-

Eased Parking Rules To End On Thursday

Motorists were reminded today by Police Chief Americo Radeschi the so-called "winter" parking plan, which permits parking against the flow of traffic on hillside residential streets, will end Thursday.

Chief Radeschi said drivers may be cited for "wrong way" violations at the end of the 90-day period.

The plan was put into effect Dec. 22 by Chief Radeschi and Safety - Service Director Robert Owen under a city ordinance which permits the two officials to make temporary changes for a three-month period.

It has been in effect for the last several years to aid motorists in pulling from parking places on hilly streets.

Council Waits Late For 2 Members To Enact Legislation

Council delayed adjournment of its meeting until near midnight Monday to muster enough votes to give immediate passage to an ordinance authorizing the city to borrow up to $45,000 against future tax receipts, assuring that the municipal payroll would be met in full today.

With a minimum of six affirmative votes required to give the emergency legislation immediate approval on one reading, only five members were present when the meeting got under way at 8 last night.

Council transacted most of its other business, then recessed shortly after 9 to await the arrival of Councilmen Robert W. Sample Jr. and Floyd Murray, who were at work on the 3-11 shift at the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co.

The meeting convened again a few minutes after 11. The ordinance was passed unanimously and Council adjourned at 11:30.

The legislation provides that Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate may borrow money "from time to time as necessary" up to the maximum amount, issuing six-month city notes to banks.

The city will be required to bor-

Eased Parking Rules To End On Thursday

Motorists were reminded today by Police Chief Americo Radeschi the so-called "winter" parking plan, which permits parking against the flow of traffic on hillside residential streets, will end Thursday.

Chief Radeschi said drivers may be cited for "wrong way" violations at the end of the 90-day period.

The plan was put into effect Dec. 22 by Chief Radeschi and Safety - Service Director Robert Owen under a city ordinance which permits the two officials to make temporary changes for a three-month period.

It has been in effect for the last several years to aid motorists in pulling from parking places on hilly streets.

finish drinking some beer he had in the car.

Discovering the flat tire, he started to change the wheel and the couple began to talk as he was working.

'Small' Talk Recalled

"We talked about little things—I don't remember," he said. Noticing how dirty his hands were from the tire changing.

"We got to talking about the baby and she said she was going to adopt the baby to her aunt."

Boyd said he didn't remember much after throwing the jack handle until he recalled setting Nancy Lee up against the car with blood all over her.

He said he felt for a pulse "but there was nothing there."

He said he then pulled her over the hillside — "I was scared. . . went and picked up the beer cans and threw them into the back. Then I saw the shot gun. I loaded it and went down to where she was."

Recalls Shooting

Atty. Kapp asked, "Do you remember shooting her?"

"Yes sir, I remember."

He said he then went home, changed his bloodied clothes and burned them, along with her purse, told his brother, Frank, and later went to bed.

Boyd earlier had testified about the farewell party he attended the night before at which he "had quite a bit to drink."

Earlier, Boyd said the 12-gauge shotgun had been on the back floor of his car for three or four days.

"Did you intend to kill Nancy Lee when you threw the jack handle at her?" Atty. Kapp asked. "No sir."

"Did you ever plan to kill her?" "No sir."

Judge Buzzard sustained a prosecution objection to introduction of a letter written to Nancy Lee in August.

Asked why he had the shotgun in the car, Boyd said he occasionally shot at rats at the dump near the state line.

"Do you hunt?" "Yes, I do some."

"Have you a hunting license?" "No, I didn't have a license."

"And the gun—it just happened to be in the car! "It was in the car."

"Why didn't you go with others to the diner from Higgs Inn?" "I seldom eat when I'm drinking."

"Then why did you drive out to Hoge's Restaurant, if you weren't hungry?" "I just drove around."

"Did you work up an appetite?" "I guess."

"It just happened you stopped at the billboard near her home, and it just happened you saw her come home?" "Yes it just happened."

Boyd was on the stand for over two hours Monday afternoon, recounting his early life and his 14-month marriage with Nancy Lee Boyd.

Yesterday afternoon's session was highlighted by testimony from an East End man that he had been intimate on a number of occasions with Boyd's wife, who had later told her husband about it.

May Face Contempt

Leroy Black, 24, of 2314 Harvey Ave. was scheduled to have appeared at the trial yesterday morning, but failed to attend, having gone to work at the Crucible Steel Co. at Midland.

He was summoned by telephone, and went on the stand at 1 p. m. Judge Buzzard ordered him to appear next Monday morning at 9 to show cause why he should not be penalized for failure to obey a subpoena.

Questioned by Atty. Berman, Black said he had been out with Nancy Lee and had had relations with her.

Under cross - examination by Prosecutor Brokaw, Black said he didn't recall having relations with Boyd's wife while she was still living with him, but later said it had occurred once while Boyd was working at Cleveland.

Husband Indifferent

He said he and Boyd discussed it one time while they were fishing at Grimms Bridge—"but he didn't seem to care."

Over 75 persons crowded into the courtroom yesterday afternoon to hear the testimony. A Lisbon area woman fainted while standing at the back of the room, which became stuffy, and blacked out again in the corridor shortly afterward.

Boyd took the stand shortly before 2 p. m. and described his early life and travels and frictions with his wife, whom he married after she became pregnant in 1960.

Born in Wellsville, he had lived with his grandparents and then his father after his parents were divorced, and he quit school in the eighth grade to go to work for a pony ride in a circus which passed through town.

Goes On To California

When the circus broke up in Pensacola, Fla., he went to California with the ride operators who opened a pet shop in which he worked for $10 a week — although he was promised $50. When police found he was sleeping in a shoddy warehouse of the shop, his father was notified and he returned to East Liverpool.

Boyd then worked for a produce salesman, at a farm near Painesville, and next at the Homer Laughlin China Co. as a batter-out for about six weeks. Then he went to work at the Hall China Co. for over two years, but quit to go with another fellow to Florida where he went to work for a meat packing concern at Tampa.

He became ill, returned to East Liverpool and was placed in the hospital for two weeks with pneumonia, and later went to Cleveland where he got a job as a short-order cook in a diner. He switched to work with an aluminum siding firm, then to construction work and next to a Cleveland food processing concern.

First Met At Lake

Boyd said he first met Nancy Lee at Lake Marwin where he had gone swimming. He said he took her out after that, but was not "going with her."

He said once when he came home from Cleveland, she said she thought she was pregnant, and talked about getting married.

Later, he said she telephoned him at Cleveland, and wanted to know " 'If I was going to marry her.' I said I didn't know if I wanted to, then she started crying, and her mother got on the phone, and said if I didn't marry her, Mr. Tobin said 'I'd get in jail'."

"I agreed to marry her," Boyd said. He came back, and they were wed on the way home from Lisbon after getting the marriage license. That same day they went to the Potters Picnic at Canton at the invitation of her parents, and they stayed at her parents' home that night. The following night—a Sunday—he returned to his work at Cleveland.

Quits Cleveland Job

Under pressure from Nancy, he quit work at Cleveland and returned here where they moved to his father's home and he started to look for work. He said he couldn't find a job—vision in his left eye is impaired — and he didn't try at Crucible Steel in Midland because of the examination, so he returned to Cleveland and got the cook job back until he and another fellow went to California.

He worked at an aircraft plant for about a week—he had to quit because his personnel form answers were inconsistent—and after looking for work, he hitchhiked back to East Liverpool in October. Tania, the baby daughter, was born in December.

He said both he and his wife took care of the child at first, but his wife's interest began to wane and he said he would come home to find dirty diapers on the floor and soiled clothing on the baby.

Returns Minus Girdle

He told of his wife saying one night she was going to the library for books and then returning at 1:30 a. m. minus her girdle and one stocking. She later said, he testified, she had been with a man. Boyd said he found the man's name and address on paper at the home later.

On another occasion, Boyd went on, she said she was going to the automatic laundry and after "four or five hours," he walked down to the place and she was not there.

Boyd said he worked on city streets for relief checks, and he saw her on a bus one time. She at first denied she had been downtown, but later said she had gone "for a coke." Another time he was working, he testified, he saw her walking on 5th St. with a fellow who turned into an alley when he saw Boyd go by on a city vehicle.

Boyd said the couple then moved in with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chandler, and later moved into a small house near the Chandler home on Dresden Ave. Ext. Boyd got a job with the Paramount Service Station and worked late at nights, he said.

Explains Wife's Screaming

Asked about an occasion when Mrs. Floyd Hall, his wife's aunt, heard Nancy screaming and found them on the floor. Boyd said his wife had been "hollerin' " at the baby who was crying because of the heat.

Boyd said he told his wife to "shut up," because the baby was uncomfortable with the heat. He said he slapped her on the back, then shoved her at the bed. His wife jumped up, he said, then they both slipped and fell on the floor and that's when Mrs. Hall came in.

The couple finally broke up Aug. 10, 1961. He said he had worked late, and when he awakened in the morning, the baby was not there—it was at the Chandlers. He asked Nancy to get Tania, but she refused, he said.

"I talked to her about what I'd been hearing of her, and she told me that she was 'running around'."

Packs For Leaving

"I told her I was leaving, and got some boxes and started packing my clothes.

He said he went over to the Chandlers and got some of his clothes and some of the baby's things and, as he left, she grabbed his arm and threw things all over the yard.

"She started screaming," he said, and then went to the roadside and started throwing rocks. He said a fellow came along in a car and "picked me and the baby up and took us to my mother's in Chester."

He said he stayed with his mother, who kept the baby for a while. His mother returned the child to the Chandlers in September when Boyd failed to go to work one day because he went to a tavern with an acquaintance. But Boyd later got the child back by telling Mrs. Chandler he was going to take Tania for a visit, and instead, took her to the Boyd home.

Father Of 5 May Win Release In Jail Term

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff said today he is considering ordering the release of Gordon Reynolds of R. D. 1, who has been in County Jail since Feb. 26, serving a 60-day term on a charge of "drag racing" at speeds up to 105 miles an hour on the East Liverpool-Wellsville "super-road."

The judge said he may order Reynold's release in order that he can go back to work and support his wife and five children, who are receiving relief because of the husband's confinement. However, a six-month suspension of Reynold's license will not be lifted, the judge said.

"I see no sense in the taxpayers footing the bill for relief when he could be out working and supporting his family," the judge commented. The plea for release of Reynolds was made yesterday by his wife, who was accompanied by the children. The oldest is 9.

New food mixers for No. 16 and Highlandtown cafeterias were ordered from Acme Sales of Wellsville.

The board approved a recommendation from Baker for the purchase of science kits for all elementary schools and physics lab equipment at the high school. He was authorized to spend up to $800 under Title 3, a federal program.

Russia Goes To The Polls

There is one advantage to elections in the Soviet Union: Editorials can be written about their outcome before they take place.

Consider the national and regional parliamentary elections held Sunday, for instance.

We knew in advance all the big wheels in the Communist party were going to be re-elected, unless they had been scourged by their fellow big wheels for diviating from the current party line.

WE KNEW there wasn't a chance the premier would be toppled from his seat when the returns came in.

We know some non-party members would be elected, but they fill only 40 per cent of the seats available while non-party members in the total electorate outnumber the Communists 14 to 1.

We knew 99.97 per cent of the electorate would vote, because this is the only way the Communists can indulge their fetish for calling their form of government "democracy."

We knew only about 500,000 voters out of 141 million would dare to vote "no" on the only candidate offered them. What we don't know is whether the same 500,000 will get a chance to vote "no" in the next election.

We know that after the newly elected parliamentarians take their seats, their chief function will be to rubber-stamp the proposals of decrees of the recognized leaders.

EVERYTHING in this picture fits together very nicely. It is the ultimate lesson in how to win elections.

The Russians do us a service by going to the polls about the time we are preparing to hold our primary elections. These party affairs are traditionally boycotted by the majority of voters as unimportant.

Are they?

More Honors

Don Spires, Stanton Local's outstanding basketball player, has brought more recognition to himself, to his school and to his community by being named to the first All-Ohio Class A team for the second year in a row.

It is a deserving tribute to an excellent cager and a fine young man.

Many colleges already have been beating a path to the Spires door and the latest all-state honors undoubtedly will add to the list.

District fans probably would be most happy if young Spires chose an Ohio school for both his future education and athletic endeavers. It would give them a chance to better follow the career of one who has provided so many exciting moments on the basketball floor during his high school days.

The Point Is—No Return

When even the old hands of Washington admit they're confused by the argument over the superbomber that the Air Force wants to build and the rest of the Defense Department says is obsolete before it leaves the drawing board, the rest of us can take comfort.

There are times when we think we have a glimmer of understanding. One was while we were reading about the first flight of the Titan 2 rocket, which soared 5,000 miles on its maiden flight last week, landed on target and filled everybody in rocketry with a sense of accomplishment.

This is the rocket that will make superbombers obsolete. It has the range and the technical characteristics to make it superior to planes. Its fuel can be stored for long periods. It has thrust equivalent to the power of 22,000 ordinary automobiles running at top speed. It is accurate.

The principal thing about rockets as definitive nuclear bomb carriers still has not been clearly understood. It is the fact they never come back. They are "washed out" the instant they leave their launching sites. They require none of the complex equipment built into superbombers for the safety of the crew. They are as expendable as the shells of a battleship.

Moreover, once they have been built they exist in being; they do not require 24-hour maintenance. Their operation is automated when they are fired. The crews responsible for firing them do not risk their lives. They send them on their way and get ready to fire the next rocket.

There is great fuss and bother at Geneva over a disarmament conference. The aim of disarmament is to keep military spending from consuming even more productivity than it's consuming now.

No one has any thought, really, of disarming. It is arms control, not disarmament that's under discussion. The great powers never were closer to it than they are coming to be in the era of rocket armament—an era in which all the glory will be taken out of war by automation and no one will have any incentive to push the button marked "Extermination."

Light Casualties At First

Defense Secretary McNamara has told questioners that U.S. troops have been under fire in South Viet Nam. "There has been sporadic fire aimed at them and in a few minor instances they have fires back," he says.

At any moment of any day, the U.S. training mission in South Viet Nam could come under direct and sustained attack. If it happened, South Viet Nam troops being trained presumably would do their best but the brunt of the military action necessarily would be borne by the United States by the "experts."

The United States would never be at war with an enemy in Viet Nam as truly as it was at war with an enemy in Korea—and in all probability it would be the same enemy. The Chinese People's Republic cannot afford to yield ground to any military action staged by the United States. It would have been challenged to uphold its prestige in its own sphere of influence; its reaction would be automatic.

Nothing is unlikelier than that the Red Chinese would react to all-out U.S. intervention in Viet Nam the way the United States has reacted to all-out Russian intervention in Cuba. Red China once proved its point by forcing the United States and its Allies back to the 38th parallel in Korea. Whatever that massive reaction to U.S. intervention may have cost, the ultimate price was far heavier for the United States than it was for the Chinese People's Republic.

Prime Minister Nehru of India is said to be among those who wonder if the United States really believes it can throw its power into South Viet Nam without expecting the Chinese People's Republic to throw their power into the same struggle.

Can anyone really believe the United States is not going to war in Indochina?

Degree For Stupidity

A degree in stupidity for two Harvard seniors was suggested recently by a New Haven judge, when they were found guilty of refusing to obey a policeman who had ordered them to stop skating on the thin ice of the Charles River March 3 and were fined $20 each.

Police testified that the pair had parked their shoes next to a sign which warned against skating, but the straw that broke the court's back was defense counsel's request for disposition that would avoid a criminal record. It was then that the judge stormed: "If we could give them a record for a degree in stupidity we would give them one."

The judge has a good idea but skaters who scoff at danger signs aren't the only candidates for this distinction. There's no limit to the possibilities.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Detroit woman aviator, getting no encouragement in efforts to be first woman in space, will fight for it. If astronauts why not "LASSTRONAUTS?" Nobody who has studied women maneuvering through earth's traffic can doubt they will show daring and determination in space travel. One mustn't, of course, look in a mirror to powder her nose or go searching for lipstick in moments of greatest danger. And what may worry National Space Administration is fear that any woman orbiting globe would be certain to discover she had forgotten her handbag and perhaps flash message "Think I forgot to close kitchen window. Must return to check."

All in all, however, "lasstronaut" among astronauts would give glamour and charm to exploits. She couldn't look at current rocket costumes and say "I have nothing to wear."

Question is whether she would be as patient as males when she was all set for a trip and was made to postpone it a half dozen times. All dressed up and in the vehicle for space flight, average woman, when told "It's all off again," might reply, "I'm fed up with this. Let's go and no more disappointments."

Mrs. Philip Hart, wife of U. S. senator, is the gal who wants to be first "lasstronaut." She has taken same tests as astronauts and passed. Day may be near when woman and man will fly in first outer space twosome. Twenty-five years from now we may, in fact, have the two-rocket family with a "His" and "Hers" capsule.

GENEVA SUMMIT MEETING is on again and indications are world is going to block peace no matter how many Swiss visits are required. Never have so many people in world had to depend on so few for a sign of brotherhood and mutual understanding.

And Plenty More Where That Came From

To Step Down Or Not To Step Down?

By Victor Riesel

WICHITA, KAN.

There is no business like the loan business. And you don't even have to be a bank. All you need is a pension fund and all sorts of folks seek you out with all sorts of propositions. Especially if you have a quiet type influential voice on the board of trustees of something with $125 million — such as the Teamsters Central States, Southeast and Southwest Areas Pension Fund.

Victor Riesel

It has a nice round income—about $36 million a year in employer contributions and interest on its loans and investments. There are some 50 of these loans, ranging from a million to four and five million dollars, to real estate operators, motel entrepreneurs and restaurateurs. It's all very legal.

But I guess it's the fresh air of these wide open spaces which makes me so cussed as to raise a rather intriguing points—that is, the three Teamster trustees of the Central States Pension Fund have all been indicted by the federal government on rather serious charges.

Amongst the trustees is none other than Roy Lee Williams, Jimmy Hoffa's comrade in arms from over Kansas City way. Williams was indicted recently by a grand jury after being investigated by the FBI for six months. He was charged with conspiring to embezzle and convert more than $42,000 from Locals 41 and 541, and Joint Council 56 which covers this state.

There were 16 counts in the indictment. Williams, whom Hoffa recently appointed a national general organizer of the brotherhood in a real gesture of togetherness, is president of Local 41 and head of the Kansas - Missouri Joint Council.

HIS INFLUENCE in Teamsters' circles goes back quite a bit. He needed some cash back in January '59. He got a $17,000 loan from something called the Union Land Co., which owned the Sun Valley land project.

The owner of the Union Land Co. admitted holding the controlling stock "as a front" for a chap called Benjamin Dranow who has been convicted on charges of fraud and is up for trial on charges of income tax evasion. Therefore it was Dranow who really owned Sun Valley.

It is in connection with the Sun Valley paradise-for-teamsters land development scheme that Jim Hoffa has been indicted. The charge is fraudulent misuse of the mails. Some $500,000 is involved in the Sun Valley project.

A third is the leader of all the Ohio teamsters, a gentleman by name of William (Bill) Presser. He was convicted for destroying vital records sought by the McClellan committee.

THERE WAS another trustee. But he flew his own airplane right into the ground. He was Gene San Souci, late leader of the Indiana teamsters. A mighty tough man was San Souci. Also very busy with lots of deals. When he went out he was involved in suspicious stock manipulations in Florida.

Now a federal grand jury is looking into the Central State fund. No one knows what they've found, if anything.

The point is that every man is innocent of any taint until proven guilty. But these men of the brotherhood have been indicted by a jury of their peers and perhaps the right thing to do would be step down from the board of trustees until the jury verdict is in.

Now that's not unreasonable.

Since Hoffa and company are stubborn about such matters, perhaps it might be a demonstration of full respect for the jury system if some of those who advise the trustees take their leave from the group which advises on investments.

ONE OF JIMMY Hoffa's advisors is John Roosevelt. He is an honest man. Therefore, I presume that he meant every word he said when he spoke at the Miami Beach teamsters convention on July 6, 1961.

"Mr. Chairman, Jimmy," John Roosevelt said, turning to Hoffa, "I know you too well to call you 'Mr. Chairman.' I want to thank you for your kindness in making me a guest of your great convention here.

"I understand that either late tonight or probably tomorrow you will select your president for the next five years. I can only tell you—and this is presumptuous on my part, I know—that if I were a delegate there would be no question in my mind that I would vote for Jimmy Hoffa.

"I have had the opportunity of working with Jimmy the last few years. I can tell you that at least from my side of the fence this has been a most satisfactory experience. I can only hope that in the years to come we will maintain that same close relationship; and I hope that . . . Jimmy will have more time to work for the affirmative side of your aims rather than to be under the continual harassment of certain agencies of the government."

Oh well, it's a free country. There's no accounting for tastes in friends or business.

Significant Omission

By David Lawrence

Kennedy Forgets Government's 'Inefficiency'

It is reported that somebody among the White House aides thought up a good title for a special message to Congress "Protecting the Consumer interest" — and then they all sat around trying to decide what to put into it.

David Lawrence

The net result was a hodgepodge of recommendations, but the message was really significant, not for what it contained, but for what it omitted. The President said in one of the opening paragraphs:

"Fortunate as we are, we nevertheless cannot afford waste in consumption any more than we can afford inefficiency in business or government."

But nowhere in the essay was there anything said in explanation of the "inefficiency in government." The message used up nine long pages of single-spaced typewriting and dealt with everything from alleged misrepresentations in advertising of foods and drugs to the kind of lipstick or hair dye that women are misled into buying.

It would seem that somehow consideration now should be given to "a message from the victims of government inefficiency."

For in the many thousands of words in the President's latest message about protecting the consumer, there wasn't a single sentence telling of the damage being done to the consumer by the government itself. There was no reference to the constant diminution of the wages of the citizens through taxes and the attrition of the purchasing power of the dollar as a result of unsound fiscal policies pursued by the administration in Washington, especially as they relate to wasteful expenditures here and abroad.

The President complains that "highly developed arts of persuasion" are being used in America to sell goods to the consumer.

He rightly argues that the consumer should be protected against "fraudulent, deceitful or grossly misleading information, advertising, labeling or other practices" but why hasn't the government itself been efficient in this field?

Mr. Kennedy gives the impression that all these abuses have just begun to happen and that nothing has been done about them heretofore. He doesn't mention that the Pure Food and Drug Act has been on the statute books for decades and that the federal trade commission over the past half-century has been charged by Congress with specific responsibility for taking action on these misrepresentations.

HOW MUCH of the taxpayers' money has already gone into the regulatory agencies of the government? Is the President blaming everything now on the absence of laws to deal with these abuses?

As for accidents on the highways, has nothing ever been done by auto manufacturers to try to assure safety for auto drivers, or by those states and cities that issue licenses to drivers and conduct periodic inspections of cars?

The President seems to think that changes in automobile design and equipment can reduce the casualties—as if the auto manufacturers themselves haven't been spending millions of dollars each year in research on this very subject.

The President wants "simple common names" for drugs in order to avoid confusion and to enable the purchaser to buy the quality drugs at the lowest competitive price but "common names" are all too few and are quickly used up. If something is labeled "a cure for a cold," it may be even more confusing if the label doesn't tell what is distinctive about the medicine or if some name is used that is so vague that the individual can't remember how to describe it when he tells his fellow sufferers about it.

Mr. Kennedy admits that 80 per cent of the drugs do what they claim to do, which means that 20 per cent are subject to criticism. Hasn't this been the case for years, and hasn't the Food and Drug Administration been improving that situation constantly by hard work and efficient investigation?

As for "misleading" salesmanship, is the government itself without fault? Why doesn't the President busy himself with the Post Office Department's collection of money under what might be called "misleading" circumstances? It charges 30 cents for a special delivery stamp, but there are hundreds of towns in the United States where the Post Offices are closed over the weekends and hence no special delivery service is provided.

The public doesn't know which towns these happen to be, so a great deal of money is paid out under an illusion. This is a form of waste imposed on the consumer by the government itself.

AS TO LACK of efficiency in an important operation in one of the government's biggest business enterprises, airmail delivery is a case in point. Many an airmail letter posted during the week—even when there is no adverse weather—takes 24 hours or more for delivery, although the plane carrying it makes the trip in a few hours. Some of the trains between the same points actually arrive hours before the airmail letter does.

Also, there are literally hundreds of cases in which other government departments and agencies cause considerable expense to the citizens and to various businesses and for which today there is no redress or compensation.

What about the misleading statements of politicians? Wouldn't it be "protecting the consumer interest"—or at least the "voter interest"—if all political salesmanship, including messages by the President to Congress and speeches in both houses, were subject every day to the same strict standards of scrutiny and common honesty that Mr. Kennedy now recommends for salesmanship in business?

Letters To The Editor

I have been following the various letters pertaining to the re-enactment of the city income tax.

Disgust overwhelms me. I cannot believe we have citizens so wanton. They hold our basic freedoms, our democracy so cheaply with their irresponsible, undisciplined, unchaste utterances.

Voting in freedom of choice is an essential feature of our form of government, but by no means does it constitute the whole interpretation of our democracy. Democracy as we know it is by the people either directly or through elected representatives.

Our councilmen are elected representatives of the people of East Liverpool.

The voter is responsible for the outcome of the election by the way he votes. It is his duty to vote intelligently. He should vote consistently all the way through for the man or woman who best represents their honest convictions.

An honest patriotic Christian citizen will not vote under pressure of political expendiency or because the candidate is a Democrat or a Republican. The voter should vote for the candidate whom he thinks has the best qualifications for the job and best represents his honest convictions.

The people who voted for the present councilmen and voted against the income tax did not vote consistently with their convictions. In other words, they did not vote intelligently.

Several of the councilmen now in office were also in office under the Lawrence administration when the income tax measure was enacted and put into effect. It is unreasonable to expect the returning councilmen who are in sympathy with the tax measure not to assume that they have the full confidence of the majority of voters.

By the re-election of these councilmen, the people gave said councilmen the right to believe that their leadership and judgment was trustworthy enough to achieve the best solution by dealing realistically, not emotionally, with our city's problems.

Therefore, if the decisions logically determined by Council are equitable to the best interests of the whole people, they are not contrary to our democracy. It is our patriotic duty to share the burden of expense according to our means, this is not unjust. Council can collect legally an income tax of 1 per cent without a vote of the people.

The long-range achievement of progress in our community will be determined by how much or how little conscientious support it receives from its constituents. The city must be served by all of us to benefit us all and become an asset to our national economy.

We knew in advance all the big wheels in the Communist party were going to be re-elected, unless they had been scourged by their fellow big wheels for diviating from the current party line.

WE KNEW there wasn't a chance the premier would be toppled from his seat when the returns came in.

We know some non-party members would be elected, but they fill only 40 per cent of the seats available while non-party members in the total electorate outnumber the Communists 14 to 1.

We knew 99.97 per cent of the electorate would vote, because this is the only way the Communists can indulge their fetish for calling their form of government "democracy."

We knew only about 500,000 voters out of 141 million would dare to vote "no" on the only candidate offered them. What we don't know is whether the same 500,000 will get a chance to vote "no" in the next election.

We know that after the newly elected parliamentarians take their seats, their chief function will be to rubber-stamp the proposals of decrees of the recognized leaders.

EVERYTHING in this picture fits together very nicely. It is the ultimate lesson in how to win elections.

The Russians do us a service by going to the polls about the time we are preparing to hold our primary elections. These party affairs are traditionally boycotted by the majority of voters as unimportant.

Are they?

More Honors

Don Spires, Stanton Local's outstanding basketball player, has brought more recognition to himself, to his school and to his community by being named to the first All-Ohio Class A team for the second year in a row.

It is a deserving tribute to an excellent cager and a fine young man.

Many colleges already have been beating a path to the Spires door and the latest all-state honors undoubtedly will add to the list.

District fans probably would be most happy if young Spires chose an Ohio school for both his future education and athletic endeavers. It would give them a chance to better follow the career of one who has provided so many exciting moments on the basketball floor during his high school days.

The Point Is—No Return

When even the old hands of Washington admit they're confused by the argument over the superbomber that the Air Force wants to build and the rest of the Defense Department says is obsolete before it leaves the drawing board, the rest of us can take comfort.

There are times when we think we have a glimmer of understanding. One was while we were reading about the first flight of the Titan 2 rocket, which soared 5,000 miles on its maiden flight last week, landed on target and filled everybody in rocketry with a sense of accomplishment.

This is the rocket that will make superbombers obsolete. It has the range and the technical characteristics to make it superior to planes. Its fuel can be stored for long periods. It has thrust equivalent to the power of 22,000 ordinary automobiles running at top speed. It is accurate.

The principal thing about rockets as definitive nuclear bomb carriers still has not been clearly understood. It is the fact they never come back. They are "washed out" the instant they leave their launching sites. They require none of the complex equipment built into superbombers for the safety of the crew. They are as expendable as the shells of a battleship.

Moreover, once they have been built they exist in being; they do not require 24-hour maintenance. Their operation is automated when they are fired. The crews responsible for firing them do not risk their lives. They send them on their way and get ready to fire the next rocket.

There is great fuss and bother at Geneva over a disarmament conference. The aim of disarmament is to keep military spending from consuming even more productivity than it's consuming now.

No one has any thought, really, of disarming. It is arms control, not disarmament that's under discussion. The great powers never were closer to it than they are coming to be in the era of rocket armament—an era in which all the glory will be taken out of war by automation and no one will have any incentive to push the button marked "Extermination."

Light Casualties At First

Defense Secretary McNamara has told questioners that U.S. troops have been under fire in South Viet Nam. "There has been sporadic fire aimed at them and in a few minor instances they have fires back," he says.

At any moment of any day, the U.S. training mission in South Viet Nam could come under direct and sustained attack. If it happened, South Viet Nam troops being trained presumably would do their best but the brunt of the military action necessarily would be borne by the United States by the "experts."

The United States would never be at war with an enemy in Viet Nam as truly as it was at war with an enemy in Korea—and in all probability it would be the same enemy. The Chinese People's Republic cannot afford to yield ground to any military action staged by the United States. It would have been challenged to uphold its prestige in its own sphere of influence; its reaction would be automatic.

Nothing is unlikelier than that the Red Chinese would react to all-out U.S. intervention in Viet Nam the way the United States has reacted to all-out Russian intervention in Cuba. Red China once proved its point by forcing the United States and its Allies back to the 38th parallel in Korea. Whatever that massive reaction to U.S. intervention may have cost, the ultimate price was far heavier for the United States than it was for the Chinese People's Republic.

Prime Minister Nehru of India is said to be among those who wonder if the United States really believes it can throw its power into South Viet Nam without expecting the Chinese People's Republic to throw their power into the same struggle.

Can anyone really believe the United States is not going to war in Indochina?

Degree For Stupidity

A degree in stupidity for two Harvard seniors was suggested recently by a New Haven judge, when they were found guilty of refusing to obey a policeman who had ordered them to stop skating on the thin ice of the Charles River March 3 and were fined $20 each.

Police testified that the pair had parked their shoes next to a sign which warned against skating, but the straw that broke the court's back was defense counsel's request for disposition that would avoid a criminal record. It was then that the judge stormed: "If we could give them a record for a degree in stupidity we would give them one."

The judge has a good idea but skaters who scoff at danger signs aren't the only candidates for this distinction. There's no limit to the possibilities.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Detroit woman aviator, getting no encouragement in efforts to be first woman in space, will fight for it. If astronauts why not "LASSTRONAUTS?" Nobody who has studied women maneuvering through earth's traffic can doubt they will show daring and determination in space travel. One mustn't, of course, look in a mirror to powder her nose or go searching for lipstick in moments of greatest danger. And what may worry National Space Administration is fear that any woman orbiting globe would be certain to discover she had forgotten her handbag and perhaps flash message "Think I forgot to close kitchen window. Must return to check."

All in all, however, "lasstronaut" among astronauts would give glamour and charm to exploits. She couldn't look at current rocket costumes and say "I have nothing to wear."

Question is whether she would be as patient as males when she was all set for a trip and was made to postpone it a half dozen times. All dressed up and in the vehicle for space flight, average woman, when told "It's all off again," might reply, "I'm fed up with this. Let's go and no more disappointments."

Mrs. Philip Hart, wife of U. S. senator, is the gal who wants to be first "lasstronaut." She has taken same tests as astronauts and passed. Day may be near when woman and man will fly in first outer space twosome. Twenty-five years from now we may, in fact, have the two-rocket family with a "His" and "Hers" capsule.

And Plenty More Where That Came From

To Step Down Or Not To Step Down?

By Victor Riesel

WICHITA, KAN.

There is no business like the loan business. And you don't even have to be a bank. All you need is a pension fund and all sorts of folks seek you out with all sorts of propositions. Especially if you have a quiet type influential voice on the board of trustees of something with $125 million — such as the Teamsters Central States, Southeast and Southwest Areas Pension Fund.

Victor Riesel

It has a nice round income—about $36 million a year in employer contributions and interest on its loans and investments. There are some 50 of these loans, ranging from a million to four and five million dollars, to real estate operators, motel entrepreneurs and restaurateurs. It's all very legal.

But I guess it's the fresh air of these wide open spaces which makes me so cussed as to raise a rather intriguing points—that is, the three Teamster trustees of the Central States Pension Fund have all been indicted by the federal government on rather serious charges.

Amongst the trustees is none other than Roy Lee Williams, Jimmy Hoffa's comrade in arms from over Kansas City way. Williams was indicted recently by a grand jury after being investigated by the FBI for six months. He was charged with conspiring to embezzle and convert more than $42,000 from Locals 41 and 541, and Joint Council 56 which covers this state.

There were 16 counts in the indictment. Williams, whom Hoffa recently appointed a national general organizer of the brotherhood in a real gesture of togetherness, is president of Local 41 and head of the Kansas - Missouri Joint Council.

HIS INFLUENCE in Teamsters' circles goes back quite a bit. He needed some cash back in January '59. He got a $17,000 loan from something called the Union Land Co., which owned the Sun Valley land project.

The owner of the Union Land Co. admitted holding the controlling stock "as a front" for a chap called Benjamin Dranow who has been convicted on charges of fraud and is up for trial on charges of income tax evasion. Therefore it was Dranow who really owned Sun Valley.

It is in connection with the Sun Valley paradise-for-teamsters land development scheme that Jim Hoffa has been indicted. The charge is fraudulent misuse of the mails. Some $500,000 is involved in the Sun Valley project.

A third is the leader of all the Ohio teamsters, a gentleman by name of William (Bill) Presser. He was convicted for destroying vital records sought by the McClellan committee.

THERE WAS another trustee. But he flew his own airplane right into the ground. He was Gene San Souci, late leader of the Indiana teamsters. A mighty tough man was San Souci. Also very busy with lots of deals. When he went out he was involved in suspicious stock manipulations in Florida.

Now a federal grand jury is looking into the Central State fund. No one knows what they've found, if anything.

The point is that every man is innocent of any taint until proven guilty. But these men of the brotherhood have been indicted by a jury of their peers and perhaps the right thing to do would be step down from the board of trustees until the jury verdict is in.

Now that's not unreasonable.

Since Hoffa and company are stubborn about such matters, perhaps it might be a demonstration of full respect for the jury system if some of those who advise the trustees take their leave from the group which advises on investments.

ONE OF JIMMY Hoffa's advisors is John Roosevelt. He is an honest man. Therefore, I presume that he meant every word he said when he spoke at the Miami Beach teamsters convention on July 6, 1961.

"Mr. Chairman, Jimmy," John Roosevelt said, turning to Hoffa, "I know you too well to call you 'Mr. Chairman.' I want to thank you for your kindness in making me a guest of your great convention here.

"I understand that either late tonight or probably tomorrow you will select your president for the next five years. I can only tell you—and this is presumptuous on my part, I know—that if I were a delegate there would be no question in my mind that I would vote for Jimmy Hoffa.

"I have had the opportunity of working with Jimmy the last few years. I can tell you that at least from my side of the fence this has been a most satisfactory experience. I can only hope that in the years to come we will maintain that same close relationship; and I hope that . . . Jimmy will have more time to work for the affirmative side of your aims rather than to be under the continual harassment of certain agencies of the government."

Oh well, it's a free country. There's no accounting for tastes in friends or business.

Significant Omission

By David Lawrence

Kennedy Forgets Government's 'Inefficiency'

It is reported that somebody among the White House aides thought up a good title for a special message to Congress "Protecting the Consumer interest" — and then they all sat around trying to decide what to put into it.

David Lawrence

The net result was a hodgepodge of recommendations, but the message was really significant, not for what it contained, but for what it omitted. The President said in one of the opening paragraphs:

"Fortunate as we are, we nevertheless cannot afford waste in consumption any more than we can afford inefficiency in business or government."

But nowhere in the essay was there anything said in explanation of the "inefficiency in government." The message used up nine long pages of single-spaced typewriting and dealt with everything from alleged misrepresentations in advertising of foods and drugs to the kind of lipstick or hair dye that women are misled into buying.

It would seem that somehow consideration now should be given to "a message from the victims of government inefficiency."

For in the many thousands of words in the President's latest message about protecting the consumer, there wasn't a single sentence telling of the damage being done to the consumer by the government itself. There was no reference to the constant diminution of the wages of the citizens through taxes and the attrition of the purchasing power of the dollar as a result of unsound fiscal policies pursued by the administration in Washington, especially as they relate to wasteful expenditures here and abroad.

The President complains that "highly developed arts of persuasion" are being used in America to sell goods to the consumer.

He rightly argues that the consumer should be protected against "fraudulent, deceitful or grossly misleading information, advertising, labeling or other practices" but why hasn't the government itself been efficient in this field?

Mr. Kennedy gives the impression that all these abuses have just begun to happen and that nothing has been done about them heretofore. He doesn't mention that the Pure Food and Drug Act has been on the statute books for decades and that the federal trade commission over the past half-century has been charged by Congress with specific responsibility for taking action on these misrepresentations.

HOW MUCH of the taxpayers' money has already gone into the regulatory agencies of the government? Is the President blaming everything now on the absence of laws to deal with these abuses?

As for accidents on the highways, has nothing ever been done by auto manufacturers to try to assure safety for auto drivers, or by those states and cities that issue licenses to drivers and conduct periodic inspections of cars?

The President seems to think that changes in automobile design and equipment can reduce the casualties—as if the auto manufacturers themselves haven't been spending millions of dollars each year in research on this very subject.

The President wants "simple common names" for drugs in order to avoid confusion and to enable the purchaser to buy the quality drugs at the lowest competitive price but "common names" are all too few and are quickly used up. If something is labeled "a cure for a cold," it may be even more confusing if the label doesn't tell what is distinctive about the medicine or if some name is used that is so vague that the individual can't remember how to describe it when he tells his fellow sufferers about it.

Mr. Kennedy admits that 80 per cent of the drugs do what they claim to do, which means that 20 per cent are subject to criticism. Hasn't this been the case for years, and hasn't the Food and Drug Administration been improving that situation constantly by hard work and efficient investigation?

As for "misleading" salesmanship, is the government itself without fault? Why doesn't the President busy himself with the Post Office Department's collection of money under what might be called "misleading" circumstances? It charges 30 cents for a special delivery stamp, but there are hundreds of towns in the United States where the Post Offices are closed over the weekends and hence no special delivery service is provided.

The public doesn't know which towns these happen to be, so a great deal of money is paid out under an illusion. This is a form of waste imposed on the consumer by the government itself.

AS TO LACK of efficiency in an important operation in one of the government's biggest business enterprises, airmail delivery is a case in point. Many an airmail letter posted during the week—even when there is no adverse weather—takes 24 hours or more for delivery, although the plane carrying it makes the trip in a few hours. Some of the trains between the same points actually arrive hours before the airmail letter does.

Also, there are literally hundreds of cases in which other government departments and agencies cause considerable expense to the citizens and to various businesses and for which today there is no redress or compensation.

What about the misleading statements of politicians? Wouldn't it be "protecting the consumer interest"—or at least the "voter interest"—if all political salesmanship, including messages by the President to Congress and speeches in both houses, were subject every day to the same strict standards of scrutiny and common honesty that Mr. Kennedy now recommends for salesmanship in business?

Letters To The Editor

I have been following the various letters pertaining to the reenactment of the city income tax.

Disgust overwhelms me. I cannot believe we have citizens so wanton. They hold our basic freedoms, our democracy so cheaply with their irresponsible, undisciplined, unchaste utterances.

Voting in freedom of choice is an essential feature of our form of government, but by no means does it constitute the whole interpretation of our democracy. Democracy as we know it is by the people either directly or through elected representatives.

Our councilmen are elected representatives of the people of East Liverpool.

The voter is responsible for the outcome of the election by the way he votes. It is his duty to vote intelligently. He should vote consistently all the way through for the man or woman who best represents their honest convictions.

An honest patriotic Christian citizen will not vote under pressure of political expendiency or because the candidate is a Democrat or a Republican. The voter should vote for the candidate whom he thinks has the best qualifications for the job and best represents his honest convictions.

The people who voted for the present councilmen and voted against the income tax did not vote consistently with their convictions. In other words, they did not vote intelligently.

Several of the councilmen now in office were also in office under the Lawrence administration when the income tax measure was enacted and put into effect. It is unreasonable to expect the returning councilmen who are in sympathy with the tax measure not to assume that they have the full confidence of the majority of voters.

By the re-election of these councilmen, the people gave said councilmen the right to believe that their leadership and judgment was trustworthy enough to achieve the best solution by dealing realistically, not emotionally, with our city's problems.

Therefore, if the decisions logically determined by Council are equitable to the best interests of the whole people, they are not contrary to our democracy. It is our patriotic duty to share the burden of expense according to our means, this is not unjust. Council can collect legally an income tax of 1 per cent without a vote of the people.

The long-range achievement of progress in our community will be determined by how much or how little conscientious support it receives from its constituents. The city must be served by all of us to benefit us all and become an asset to our national economy.

In Council Report

Plans Approved For Crosswalks

Council approved a recommendation from its street committee Monday night for establishment of additional crosswalks on two of the busiest downtown streets.

Councilman Kenneth Berg, chairman, suggested crosswalks be painted on E. 5th St. at Crook Alley and across the Diamond between Summit Ln. and Diamond Alley.

He also recommended two more traffic changes — a stop sign at Oakland Ave. and Holliday St., giving the right-of-way to north-south traffic, and a "hold" signal on the traffic light at W. 6th and Jefferson Sts. to expedite left turns for traffic headed south on Jefferson.

THE "HOLD" light, similar to others in use in the downtown area, would delay northbound Jefferson St. traffic momentarily to allow left turns onto W. 6th St. for southbound drivers. The recommendation has been under study by the committee for several weeks.

Berg said the committee also proposes installation of "walk lights" at the four corners of 5th and Market Sts. to aid pedestrians. His proposal was referred to the finance committee for study.

In another traffic change, Safety-Service Director Robert Owen told Council signs have been erected designating a new alternate State Route 39 path through the business district for heavy trucks.

THE TRUCKS now will follow Webber Way, Market St., E. 3rd St. and Broadway to the River Rd. The change will eliminate the steep grade on Broadway between E. 3rd and E. 4th Sts. A trucker suggested the change in remarks to Council March 5.

Fire Chief Charles Bryan advised Council Basil Mangano, auto agency owner, has promised to raze two chimneys that were left standing when a house he owned at State St. and Michigan Ave. was torn down recently. Councilman Floyd Murray filed a complaint on the two chimneys at the March 5 meeting, asserting they were a hazard to children playing on the site.

ALTHOUGH THE job called for demolishing the chimneys, they were left standing, Bryan said. Mangano has promised to send a bulldozer to the lot to knock over the chimneys, the chief said.

Councilman Edward Massey, reporting for the claims committee, listed approval of a $290 bill against the city filed by Linda Burlingame of Grant St., whose parked auto was hit by a skidding incinerator department truck.

The committee has rejected a $10 claim filed by Mrs. Mary Graham of Negley, who said a window in her auto was broken on St. Clair Ave. when struck by a cinder thrown off a city truck that was ashing streets, Massey reported.

MASSEY THANKED Owen for the "quick and efficient" work in installing three new street lights which Council requested on W. 8th St. near the foot of Lisbon St.

Welch said six residents of the north side of W. 3rd St. have presented a petition requesting installation of a wall or curb level with their sidewalks. The request was presented because the property-owners were dissatisfied with the condition in which their sidewalks were left after a blacktop resurfacing project last year on W. 3rd, he said. The petition was referred to Owen.

The meeting opened with invocation by President Charles Edwards. Council spent close to an hour listening to the reading of the minutes from a series of meetings held in March.

Legion To Enter Team In Bowling Contest At Salem

American Legion Post 374 will enter a team in the Legion bowling contest April 8 in Salem, it was decided at a meeting Monday night at the East End home.

John Long, first vice commander, reported membership at 625. Twenty attended the meeting.

The 10th District baseball committee will meet Sunday at Columbiana.

The post drill team held a meeting to decide on the uniform. Anyone interested in joining the group may register at the post home.

A dance will be held Saturday night with Vince Mundy's orchestra furnishing the music. Tommy Miller will be the vocalist.

The board authorized that the County Medical Society be sent a vote of thanks for making the Sabin polio inoculations possible for everyone in the county. The program will begin Wednesday at 11 locations throughout the county.

Dr. C. S. Palmer, county health commissioner, gave a progress report of the county Tuberculosis Clinic evaluation being conducted by Walter Dickson Jr., director of program development for the State Health Department.

Dr. Palmer gave a report on County TB Clinic.

Two new cases were reported during the month with three starting on drugs. The clinic gave 120 X-rays, made 129 nursing visits and Dr. F. C. Kravec, clinic director, gave 10 medical consultations. One new patient was admitted to the clinic, one re-admitted and one was discharged. The clinic gave 78 Mantoux TB tests showing 13 positive reactors.

The sanitation report showed 34 restaurant inspections, 14 water samples taken, 10 nuisances investigated and nine sewage, three schools, two dumps, two nursing home and one trailer court inspection.

The county plumbing inspector, E. E. Cover, made 40 inspections, four of sewage, took 14 water samples, made two nuisance investigations and one dump inspection.

Some 19 plumbing permits and nine sewage permits were issued for the month.

Bills of $3,776 were read and ordered paid. Next meeting is April 16 at 8 p. m.

Mahoning Figure Asks Backing Of Proposed Canal

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The secretary of the Mahoning Valley Industrial Council has urged Pittsburgh leaders to back the proposed Lake Erie - Ohio River Canal.

K. M. Lloyd of Youngstown, Ohio, told a luncheon meeting sponsored by the Greater Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce Monday the Steel City will be the principal beneficiary of the canal.

He said:

"You're not doing so good. Steel plants are going where waterways are available. You are losing out in the steel industry. Your people are not working. And in the Youngstown area we have 20,000 unemployed steelworkers."

However, a Pittsburgh attorney, John C. Bane Jr., secretary of the Upper Ohio Valley Association, disagreed.

"No Pittsburgh steel company has said it is in favor of the canal, but two steel companies in Pittsburgh have said they couldn't use the canal if it were built," Bane said.

Bane dismissed Lloyd's contention that "if the canal is not built Pittsburgh will just dry up and die." He also said the canal would benefit only a few companies in Youngstown, principally Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.

Almost 300 different trades and crafts are represented in a completed motion picture.

Railroad Scored On Dim Flashers

EAST PALESTINE — Council Monday night agreed on a "get-tough" policy with the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. after receiving a series of complaints on what was termed inadequate lighting at the flasher system at the N. Market St. crossing.

A letter was written several months ago to railroad officials in Cleveland. It was neigher answered nor acknowledged.

Council last night called for enforcement of a 35-mile an hour speed limit on all trains through the village, as one means of getting action.

Last week, Postmaster Harry Andrus complained of the speed of the train carrying the morning mail after the sack tossed off bounced back beneath the wheels and was chewed to small bits.

The railroad has a counter-proposal of long standing to install automatic gates at the crossing. Councils in the past always have rejected the proposal.

Plans Approved For Crosswalks

Council approved a recommendation from its street committee Monday night for establishment of additional crosswalks on two of the busiest downtown streets.

Councilman Kenneth Berg, chairman, suggested crosswalks be painted on E. 5th St. at Crook Alley and across the Diamond between Summit Ln. and Diamond Alley.

He also recommended two more traffic changes — a stop sign at Oakland Ave. and Holliday St., giving the right-of-way to north-south traffic, and a "hold" signal on the traffic light at W. 6th and Jefferson Sts. to expedite left turns for traffic headed south on Jefferson.

THE "HOLD" light, similar to others in use in the downtown area, would delay northbound Jefferson St. traffic momentarily to allow left turns onto W. 6th St. for southbound drivers. The recommendation has been under study by the committee for several weeks.

Berg said the committee also proposes installation of "walk lights" at the four corners of 5th and Market Sts. to aid pedestrians. His proposal was referred to the finance committee for study.

In another traffic change, Safety-Service Director Robert Owen told Council signs have been erected designating a new alternate State Route 39 path through the business district for heavy trucks.

THE TRUCKS now will follow Webber Way, Market St., E. 3rd St. and Broadway to the River Rd. The change will eliminate the steep grade on Broadway between E. 3rd and E. 4th Sts. A trucker suggested the change in remarks to Council March 5.

Fire Chief Charles Bryan advised Council Basil Mangano, auto agency owner, has promised to raze two chimneys that were left standing when a house he owned at State St. and Michigan Ave. was torn down recently. Councilman Floyd Murray filed a complaint on the two chimneys at the March 5 meeting, asserting they were a hazard to children playing on the site.

ALTHOUGH THE job called for demolishing the chimneys, they were left standing, Bryan said. Mangano has promised to send a bulldozer to the lot to knock over the chimneys, the chief said.

Councilman Edward Massey, reporting for the claims committee, listed approval of a $290 bill against the city filed by Linda Burlingame of Grant St., whose parked auto was hit by a skidding incinerator department truck.

The committee has rejected a $10 claim filed by Mrs. Mary Graham of Negley, who said a window in her auto was broken on St. Clair Ave. when struck by a cinder thrown off a city truck that was ashing streets, Massey reported.

MASSEY THANKED Owen for the "quick and efficient" work in installing three new street lights which Council requested on W. 8th St. near the foot of Lisbon St.

Welch said six residents of the north side of W. 3rd St. have presented a petition requesting installation of a wall or curb level with their sidewalks. The request was presented because the property-owners were dissatisfied with the condition in which their sidewalks were left after a blacktop resurfacing project last year on W. 3rd, he said. The petition was referred to Owen.

The meeting opened with invocation by President Charles Edwards. Council spent close to an hour listening to the reading of the minutes from a series of meetings held in March.

Prices Climb For Produce

Fresh produce on area markets remained at current high prices and some inched upward last week, according to Richard W. Skinner, market information specialist with the agriculture extension service in Canfield.

Celery prices advanced even higher and, from reports, will change little on April 1. The cause of this higher price is the shortage of celery ready for harvest.

Higher prices are also the story for broccoli, cauliflower and lettuce. California has had too much cold weather in some areas and too much hot weather in other areas. However, volume and quality should improve in weeks to come.

Endive and escarole prices are down considerably and quality has improved. Snap beans and vine-ripe tomatoes are available in good volume and quality is very good.

Potatoes continue to be the real "budget stretcher" for area homemakers. The record large crop of last fall continues to influence the market for all potatoes including the new potatoes, (both red and whites) from Florida which will begin to appear on area markets in greater volume.

Florida has a 28 per cent larger corn crop this year than last. You will probably see packaged sweet corn on area markets in greater volume in weeks to come. Florida also has a 48 per cent larger strawberry crop, which will cause strawberries to be low in price for this time of year.

Berries are also coming from Louisiana and the Rio Grande Valley. The quality of strawberries on local markets at this time of year will not be comparable with the quality of home-grown strawberries. Prices will also be higher; however, the local season will not start before June 1 or later.

Orange prices advanced last week. This is especially true for navels, as a result of the cold weather in California. Florida valencias are steady at slightly lower levels. Apples, bananas and grapefruit are other economical fruit choices. You'll see more Michigan hothouse rhubarb on local markets in the next week or two.

Armco Steel Sees Better Year In '62

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Armco Steel Corp. is looking forward to a better year in 1962 because of rising steel consumption and savings through the firm's capital improvements program, according to its annual report to shareholders.

The nation's sixth largest steel producer earlier reported 1961 sales of $887,969,799 and profits of $57,516,756, or $3.89 a share.

For 1960, Armco reported profits of $70,459,281, or $4.76 a share, on sales of $937,998,519.

R. L. Gray, chairman, and Logan T. Johnston, president, noted the anticipated rise in steel consumption and said about $100 million will be spent for marketing, new research facilities, increased overseas growth and streamlining.

Armco spent $76 million for new facilities in 1961, the report said.

PHILIP

"Now Philip was of Beth-saida, the city of Andrew and Peter."

—John 1:44

The Bible tells very little about this Apostle, save that he was a fellow townsman of Andrew and Peter; and apparently among the first of that little band of Galileans to follow Jesus from the outset of His ministry.

It is clear that Philip had a practical, perhaps even a mathematical turn of mind, for when the hungry multitude that followed Jesus had to be fed, He turned to Philip and asked:

"Whence shall we buy bread, that these may eat?"

Philip apparently made a quick estimate of the number of persons in the crowd and told Jesus:

"Two hundred pennyworth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one of them may take a little."

There is another indication also (John XII:20-22) that Philip acted as a kind of informal secretary for Jesus. When a number of Greeks, who had come to the Passover feast at Jerusalem, wished to talk with the Nazarene, they sought out Philip.

"Sir," they told him, "we would see Jesus."

Like others of the Disciples, Philip often found it difficult to understand Jesus' words, and His profound meanings.

Jesus told the little company: "If ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also: and from henceforth ye know Him, and have seen Him."

But this assurance only confused Philip. He said, "Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us."

A little sadly perhaps, Jesus asked Philip then:

"Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? He that hath seen me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou then, Shew us the Father?"

Philip was with the other Disciples at Jerusalem after the Ascension. And again on the day of Pentecost he is mentioned.

But following that day, our only account of him is tradition, according to which he went as a missionary to Phrygia and was later martyred and buried at Hierapolis.

Unit Formed To Keep Reservoir Plans Alive

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP)—Officials of communities in three Southwestern Ohio counties have formed an organization to keep alive the two $20 million East Fork and Caesar Creek reservoir projects.

The Little Miami Development Association, as the organization is named, consists of officials from Milford, Loveland, Batavia, Terrace Park, Morrow and South Lebanon.

Both flood control projects were recommended years ago by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. Little was done about them until last year when Congress approved $10,000 studies for each to bring plans up to date.

Split In Cuyahoga's Democrats Disclosed

CLEVELAND (AP) — A wide split among Cuyahoga County Democrats was disclosed Monday when the Cosmopolitan Democratic League announced endorsement of Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

The regular Democratic county organization has backed Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy, who is opposing DiSalle for the party's gubernatorial nomination in the May primary.

Statue Stolen

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police reported Monday a bronze-plated statue, known as a sailor and his sweetheart, by the Russian sculptress Chana Orloff, was stolen from a temporary pedestal in the courtyard of the Philadelphia Museum of Art. Films Shown School Group

Colored Canadian travelogue movies were screened at the monthly meeting of the Highland-town Parent-Teacher Association Friday night.

First grade pupils of Mrs. Alice Falloon led devotions. They recited Ps. 23 and poems used for language classes. Group singing of "America" opened the meeting and the pledge of allegiance and the Lord's Prayer were given in unison.

Business was in charge of Robert McPherson, president. A moment of silent prayer was held in memory of Frank Rose. Mr. and Mrs. James Kessell, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Leatherberry and Mr. and Mrs. James Hogue were appointed as a nominating committee.

Jerry Russell, principal, announced the Sabin oral polio vaccine immunization Wednesday. Becky Ricciuti won fifth place in the fifth and sixth grade district spelling contest at Salineville and Priscilla Crist won second place for the seventh and eighth grades, he said.

He also informed the group that flashers have been placed in front of the school, that a physical fitness program will be started and achievement tests are being given in the school.

Mrs. Leatherberry's home room won the attendance count. Lunch was served by the sixth, seventh and eighth grade homeroom mothers.

The next meeting will be April 13 instead of April 20 because of Good Friday.

The department gave 24 immunizations, 13 vaccinations and 10 polio shots. The second-round immunizations will be given at Rogers April 16.

Ohio's Potato Growers Oppose Marketing Order

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Ohio potato growers voiced opposition Monday at the opening of another Agriculture Department hearing on a proposed national potato marketing order.

The farm proposal of the Kennedy administration received much criticism and little praise from early witnesses in the sessions conducted by J. Osmond Hyde. He is chief hearing examiner of the Agriculture Department and has taken testimony in other cities.

The inquiry is to continue today.

The secretary of agriculture is seeking to determine if a referendum is justified on the basis of all the testimony that will be recorded in the cross-country investigation.

An Agriculture Department spokesman said the order could be put into effect only on approval by two-third of the nation's 32,000 eligible potato growers voting in a referendum.

He explained a marketing order does not limit a farmer's production, but assigns him a quota beyond which he cannot sell. It also set quality standards and diverts lower grades from the market.

Opposition witnesses from four states described the proposed order as a discriminatory means of rescuing growers in potato-surplus states. Ohio is not in that category.

Ohio witnesses testified they have no processing plants to buy up their scrub potatoes and could only plow them under in spite of protests from the public.

Willard Breon of Coshocton testified for the 275-member Ohio Potato Growers Association. He charged the compulsory grading under the order would mean complete regimentation and that the secretary of agriculture would have excessive powers to impose, modify or end regulations.

Others expressing opposition included James Schmidt of Swanton, representing the Ohio Vegetable and Potato Growers Association, and Al Ramsyer of Smithville, speaking for Wade County potato growers.

Chief witness for the order was Joe Penzien of Mount Clemens, Mich., a member of the national advisory committee that recommended the proposal.

It was explained that growers of less than two acres would be exempt from regulations. This would eliminate all but 599 of the 11,728 Ohio farmers who grow potatoes, as reported in the 1959 crop census. Nationally, less than 5 per cent of all potato growers would qualify for controls, it was said.

The three fundamental units of measure are length, weight, and time.

Hunt Pressed For 2 Of 5 Who Fled Jail

MARION, Ohio (AP)—Authorities were still searching today for the last two of five men who broke out of the Marion County Jail.

At large are John F. Nelson, 20, held on a robbery charge, and Ira Nichols, 20, accused of breaking and entering.

They and three other men battered a hole in the outside wall of the jail with a steel bannister and climbed down a rope of bed clothing Sunday.

Jeffery Shockey and Frank Schofield, 20, were captured Sunday—Schofield in Kentucky—and Ray Thomas, 40, a parole violator, was picked up Monday while hitchhiking along Ohio 37 at the edge of nearby LaRue.

Prices Climb For Produce

Fresh produce on area markets remained at current high prices and some inched upward last week, according to Richard W. Skinner, market information specialist with the agriculture extension service in Canfield.

Celery prices advanced even higher and, from reports, will change little on April 1. The cause of this higher price is the shortage of celery ready for harvest.

Higher prices are also the story for broccoli, cauliflower and lettuce. California has had too much cold weather in some areas and too much hot weather in other areas. However, volume and quality should improve in weeks to come.

Endive and escarole prices are down considerably and quality has improved. Snap beans and vine-ripe tomatoes are available in good volume and quality is very good.

Potatoes continue to be the real "budget stretcher" for area homemakers. The record large crop of last fall continues to influence the market for all potatoes including the new potatoes, (both red and whites) from Florida which will begin to appear on area markets in greater volume.

Florida has a 28 per cent larger corn crop this year than last. You will probably see packaged sweet corn on area markets in greater volume in weeks to come. Florida also has a 48 per cent larger strawberry crop, which will cause strawberries to be low in price for this time of year.

Berries are also coming from Louisiana and the Rio Grande Valley. The quality of strawberries on local markets at this time of year will not be comparable with the quality of home-grown strawberries. Prices will also be higher; however, the local season will not start before June 1 or later.

Orange prices advanced last week. This is especially true for navels, as a result of the cold weather in California. Florida valencias are steady at slightly lower levels. Apples, bananas and grapefruit are other economical fruit choices. You'll see more Michigan hothouse rhubarb on local markets in the next week or two.

Safety Exercises Aid Back Muscles

"Why is it that people are having so much lower back trouble?" I asked an orthopedic specialist.

"That's a good question," he replied, adding, "I wish we knew all the answers."

Ida Jean Kain

The doctor went on to say that as life becomes physically easier, we have more back troubles. A practical way to counteract the effects of soft and sedentary living, and to strengthen the back, is to take a few minutes of corrective exercise every day. The following safety exercises can be taken by almost anyone. The routine is designed specifically for the person with a weak back.

Warning: In any acute stage of back trouble, all exercises should be strictly avoided.

IF YOU HAVE an unreliable sacroiliac or disk, consult with an orthopedic specialist or a qualified osteopath before taking even these safety exercises.

Safety position: Lie on back on floor on mat, with both knees flexed and soles of feet flat on the floor. In this position there is no strain on the lower back.

Preliminary conditioner: Aim to keep your spine flat along the floor as you pull firmly up-and-in with the lower abdominal muscles. This feels wonderfully restful. In this position, breathe naturally, slowly and deeply, about 20 times. Hold the muscle contraction but never hold your breath.

For the first exercise, start from the safety position:

Action: Lift one vertebra at a time off the floor. The aim is to try to curl the tip of the spine upwards, making the end of the spine lift itself up. Then uncurl spine, lowering back to floor one vertebra after another. Repeat the routine 3 times, rest, repeat 3 times. Later increase to 5 times.

The second exercise is taken from a modified safety position. Lie on back, right knee bent, left leg straight down.

ACTION: Pull up-and-in-snugly, pressing small of back flat against floor...hold. Raise left leg about 12 inches off floor. Hold, and very slowly lower leg to floor while counting to ten. Count out loud so as to avoid holding your breath.

Lift and lower leg slowly 5 times, later 10. Change position of legs and repeat 5 times with left leg.

Precautions: Avoid all exercises which involve sharp, twisting movements or jerky and sudden motions. Bending backward and prolonged forward bending are both risky. To avoid strain in lifting, bend knees (squat) and lift with powerful thigh muscles.

Safety Exercises Aid Back Muscles

"Why is it that people are having so much lower back trouble?" I asked an orthopedic specialist.

Ida Jean Kain

The doctor went on to say that as life becomes physically easier, we have more back troubles. A practical way to counteract the effects of soft and sedentary living, and to strengthen the back, is to take a few minutes of corrective exercise every day. The following safety exercises can be taken by almost anyone. The routine is designed specifically for the person with a weak back.

Warning: In any acute stage of back trouble, all exercises should be strictly avoided.

IF YOU HAVE an unreliable sacroiliac or disk, consult with an orthopedic specialist or a qualified osteopath before taking even these safety exercises.

Safety position: Lie on back on floor on mat, with both knees flexed and soles of feet flat on the floor. In this position there is no strain on the lower back.

Preliminary conditioner: Aim to keep your spine flat along the floor as you pull firmly up-and-in with the lower abdominal muscles. This feels wonderfully restful. In this position, breathe naturally, slowly and deeply, about 20 times. Hold the muscle contraction but never hold your breath.

For the first exercise, start from the safety position:

Action: Lift one vertebra at a time off the floor. The aim is to try to curl the tip of the spine upwards, making the end of the spine lift itself up. Then uncurl spine, lowering back to floor one vertebra after another. Repeat the routine 3 times, rest, repeat 3 times. Later increase to 5 times.

The second exercise is taken from a modified safety position. Lie on back, right knee bent, left leg straight down.

ACTION: Pull up-and-in-snugly, pressing small of back flat against floor...hold. Raise left leg about 12 inches off floor. Hold, and very slowly lower leg to floor while counting to ten. Count out loud so as to avoid holding your breath.

Lift and lower leg slowly 5 times, later 10. Change position of legs and repeat 5 times with left leg.

Precautions: Avoid all exercises which involve sharp, twisting movements or jerky and sudden motions. Bending backward and prolonged forward bending are both risky. To avoid strain in lifting, bend knees (squat) and lift with powerful thigh muscles.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Have you got the flu? Your advice to "Blue Lou," the night-shift widow, sounded as if it had been written by a person with a high fever.

My husband works from 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 a.m. He has worked this killing shift for six months and I hate it. A neighbor whose husband is a 9 to 5'er told me recently that I must get to see a lot of Joe because he's home all day. That's a laugh. Sure, I can see him if I want to go into the bedroom and watch him snore.

He sleeps all day and I have no one to talk to but a 2-year-old and a dog. I can't have any company or even turn on the radio or TV because it might disturb him. My life is upside down. When most women are cooking dinner I'm making breakfast. When Joe comes home at 7 a.m. he wants a steak and potatoes.

Sure he makes more money than day shift guys but what good is it if we have to live like moles? In June our home will be paid for and either Joe gets on the day shift so we can live like human beings again or I leave.—NIGHT LIFER.

Dear Ann: Your answer to "Blue Lou" qualifies you for a permanent perch in the Loony Bin.

You say a wife is "supposed to adjust." Well, I've been married to the graveyard shift for 14 years and I haven't adjusted yet.

I have the total responsibility of the kids. When they get home from school at 3:30 their father is just leaving for the plant. He's never around to help them with their homework, much less drive them to scout meetings or for piano lessons or be a pal to them.

Husbands who work nights must do it on purpose. It's hard to believe that a man who has been with the same company for 15 years couldn't get his shift changed if he wanted to. And then you come along and say I should be happy he isn't out chasing dames. Thanks a lot.—BLUE LOU'S SISTER.

Dear Night Lifer and Blue Lou's Sister: I received stacks of letters from night shift wives and most of their complaints were similar to the ones you registered. Where did you get the notion that men who work days are home at 3:30 to drive their kids around and "be a pal" to them. And how many married couples go out more than two evenings a week, no matter what shift the husband works?

You are right about one thing, however. Men who work the night shift do it largely as a matter of choice. Here's a letter from a man who says it far better than I could.

Prefers Night Shift

Dear Ann: Women like "Blue Lou" make me see red. My wife and I have been married 12 years and you'd have to go far to find a happier couple.

I work the night shift from 4 p.m. until midnight. I do it as a matter of choice. My wife prefers this shift to the day shift which I had for the first three years of our marriage. Our children are from 11 months of age to 10 years.

I'm home shortly after midnight. Seven hours sleep is plenty for me. I'm up in the morning with the wife and kids and we spend more time together than most day shift people.

A father will find just as much time for his wife and kids as he wants to. The shift he works doesn't have anything to do with it.—JUST PLAIN AL.

A Final Word

And now, "Dear Readers," a final word from a San Bernardino reader who signs her letter "Day Shift Widow."

Dear Ann: I wish to heaven my husband worked nights. At least I'd know where to find him. My wandering Romeo works from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. yet he rarely gets home before midnight. Some wives don't know when they've got it good.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

row approximately $2,500 this morning in order to meet the payroll today for the first half of March, Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper advised Council. Exclusive of the water and sewage departments, the semi-monthly payroll today totals about $28,000.

The city will borrow at banks on short-term notes, retiring the debt when it receives the next settlement of real estate and personal property taxes from Lisbon.

Law allows the city to borrow up to 50 per cent of the amount anticipated in a future tax settlement. The city already has received a certificate that it can expect $95,000 in a settlement in April or May.

The solicitor pointed out the legislation puts a "ceiling" on the amount the city may borrow, but it will not necessarily go into debt for the full amount. Council was advised by its finance committee March 5 that it might be necessary to borrow to meet the next payroll.

Although a new city income tax went into effect March 2, it will produce very little in new revenue until May. That's when employers are scheduled to turn over to the city the first installment of tax funds which they have withheld from their workers' wages.

Council also approved an amended appropriation ordinance providing $575 in the income tax department and $750 for the incinerator department.

The legislation earmarks $375 of the income tax fund for office salaries and $200 for postage to be used in mailing notices to persons who failed to pay the tax in 1961. The money was transferred within the department. It formerly had been set up for printing of forms and supplies.

The incinerator department's $750 will be used to rebuild a structure at the landfill dump in Bloomfield which was razed by a fire about three weeks ago. The building houses the bulldozer used to cover refuse at the dump.

Referring to the city's hard-pressed financial condition, Councilman George E. Willshaw, finance committee chairman, said Chief Charles Bryan has been "perturbed" because the fire department's creditors have started to press him for payment of bills.

Willshaw said the American-LaFrance Co., manufacturer of fire trucks and equipment, has advised the chief no more credit will be extended after April 1. The company is pressing the city for payment of three bills in 1961, he related. Other bills are outstanding for installation of radio equipment in fire trucks and more are due local suppliers, he added.

"I assured the chief we know of the bills and we will do everything possible after the first of the month to take care of them, "Willshaw told Council.

3 Dwellings To Be Moved

Clearing the way for construction of a new substation near the city filtration plant on Michigan Ave., the first of three homes to be moved from the site will be trundled to a new location starting about midnight Wednesday.

The one-story frame home at 2207 Ohio Ave. was purchased from the Ohio Power Co. by Ray Adkins, field superintendent for Chapin & Chapin, Inc., one of the contractors for the city freeway.

Adkins, who also purchased two other frame homes on the site, is having the house moved to the 1000 block on St. George St. near Mulberry St.

Paul Coppock of New Waterford, who has handled several house moving jobs in the city, is moving the building. He posted a bond with the city for any damages to city property.

Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and Safety-Service Director Robert Owen said they are not sure when or where the other two homes will be moved.

The utility purchased the four homes on the site about a year ago. There are no plans at present to remove the fourth building, a two-story home, William Williams, Ohio Power Co. manager, said.

The new substation, expected to cost in excess of $560,000, will be located on the tract adjoining the filtration plant and across Bushwick St. from the present substation, Williams said.

Informed sources said it was ony a matter of time before intervention was decreed for the five other provinces where Peronists won governorships with the small but vocal support of Communists and admirers of Fidel Castro.

Frondizi's decree said the action was necessary to preserve the republican form of government in Argentina.

Election returns indicated that as many as 45 pro-Peron candidates won congressional seats and Frondizi's Intransigent Radical party lost its majority. Normally all those elected Sunday would take office May 1.

There was no confirmation of reports that a wholesale Cabinet reshuffle was in the works. So far the president had accepted resignations from Interior Minister Alfredo Vitolo, Health Minister Hector Noblia and Public Works Minister Jose Mazar Barnet.

Frondizi, gaunt and tired-looking, gingerly threaded his way through a maze of military and civilian opposition in an effort to keep his four-year-old regime afloat despite the shattering blow his prestige suffered at the polls.

Peronists threatened to stage a nationwide strike.

Lisbon Council Turns Down Insurance Plan

LISBON — Council discussed a proposed employes hospitalization plan but advised the group at a special meeting Monday night that the village cannot go along on financing the costs. The group said it would check on how many employes might want to pay for it themselves.

Council also discussed finances for the coming year and said it has been unable to come up with any drastic cuts which would help the budget. Also discussed was the public hearing April 2 to promote the 3-mill levy on the May ballot to produce about $18,000 more per year for the general fund.

Regular meeting will be Monday at 7:30 p. m. in Council chambers.

Vote Cleared For Palestine In Annexation

The County Election Board today granted a ballot place for a vote at the May 8 primaries on an East Palestine ordinance providing for annexation of nearby areas of Unity Township.

If voters approve, East Palestine will annex parts of Sections 23, 24 and 27 in Unity Township.

However, East Palestine and New Waterford — the two incorporated communities in the township — will not have a vote on the question, Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk of the board, explained. Law provides only the unincorporated areas of the affected township have a vote in such a case.

The question will be voted upon in the North, Southeast, Southwest and Unity Precincts. It provides for annexation of the southwest quarter of Section 24, the southern half of Section 23 and the eastern half of Section 27.

The primary purpose of the annexation is to extend East Palestine's city sewage service into the nearby residential areas.

Because of the possibility of litigation over the question, the Election Board may order the full text of the question printed on the ballot, O'Hanlon said. The final decision will depend upon prices for ballots quoted by the contractor, the Wellsville Publishing Co.

Law gives the board the option of publishing the full text on the ballot or using only a brief form on the ticket and posting the full text of the proposal in each precinct. The board expects to turn over copy to the printer this afternoon, O'Hanlon said.

The board's action raises to 11 the number of special questions and issues that will appear on the May 8 ballot. The other 10 were filed by early March.

Clermont Will Stick To Balanced Budget

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP) — Clermont County commissioners say they will stick to their budget-balancing appropriations even if it means laying off sheriff's deputies.

Sheriff Clyde Dericks asked for more money Monday, saying he will go over his $72,000 annual appropriation unless he cuts off help. The commissioners told Dericks they will try to give him an extra $20,000, but that he will have to lay off deputies if that is not enough.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Have you got the flu? Your advice to "Blue Lou," the night-shift widow, sounded as if it had been written by a person with a high fever.

My husband works from 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 a.m. He has worked this killing shift for six months and I hate it. A neighbor whose husband is a 9 to 5'er told me recently that I must get to see a lot of Joe because he's home all day. That's a laugh. Sure, I can see him if I want to go into the bedroom and watch him snore.

He sleeps all day and I have no one to talk to but a 2-year-old and a dog. I can't have any company or even turn on the radio or TV because it might disturb him. My life is upside down. When most women are cooking dinner I'm making breakfast. When Joe comes home at 7 a.m. he wants a steak and potatoes.

Sure he makes more money than day shift guys but what good is it if we have to live like moles? In June our home will be paid for and either Joe gets on the day shift so we can live like human beings again or I leave.—NIGHT LIFER.

Dear Ann: Your answer to "Blue Lou" qualifies you for a permanent perch in the Loony Bin.

You say a wife is "supposed to adjust." Well, I've been married to the graveyard shift for 14 years and I haven't adjusted yet.

I have the total responsibility of the kids. When they get home from school at 3:30 their father is just leaving for the plant. He's never around to help them with their homework, much less drive them to scout meetings or for piano lessons or be a pal to them.

Husbands who work nights must do it on purpose. It's hard to believe that a man who has been with the same company for 15 years couldn't get his shift changed if he wanted to. And then you come along and say I should be happy he isn't out chasing dames. Thanks a lot.—BLUE LOU'S SISTER.

Dear Night Lifer and Blue Lou's Sister: I received stacks of letters from night shift wives and most of their complaints were similar to the ones you registered. Where did you get the notion that men who work days are home at 3:30 to drive their kids around and "be a pal" to them. And how many married couples go out more than two evenings a week, no matter what shift the husband works?

You are right about one thing, however. Men who work the night shift do it largely as a matter of choice. Here's a letter from a man who says it far better than I could.

Prefers Night Shift

Dear Ann: Women like "Blue Lou" make me see red. My wife and I have been married 12 years and you'd have to go far to find a happier couple.

I work the night shift from 4 p.m. until midnight. I do it as a matter of choice. My wife prefers this shift to the day shift which I had for the first three years of our marriage. Our children are from 11 months of age to 10 years.

I'm home shortly after midnight. Seven hours sleep is plenty for me. I'm up in the morning with the wife and kids and we spend more time together than most day shift people.

A father will find just as much time for his wife and kids as he wants to. The shift he works doesn't have anything to do with it.—JUST PLAIN AL.

A Final Word

And now, "Dear Readers," a final word from a San Bernardino reader who signs her letter "Day Shift Widow."

Dear Ann: I wish to heaven my husband worked nights. At least I'd know where to find him. My wandering Romeo works from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. yet he rarely gets home before midnight. Some wives don't know when they've got it good.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Vote Cleared For Palestine In Annexation

The County Election Board today granted a ballot place for a vote at the May 8 primaries on an East Palestine ordinance providing for annexation of nearby areas of Unity Township.

If voters approve, East Palestine will annex parts of Sections 23, 24 and 27 in Unity Township.

However, East Palestine and New Waterford — the two incorporated communities in the township — will not have a vote on the question, Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk of the board, explained. Law provides only the unincorporated areas of the affected township have a vote in such a case.

The question will be voted upon in the North, Southeast, Southwest and Unity Precincts. It provides for annexation of the southwest quarter of Section 24, the southern half of Section 23 and the eastern half of Section 27.

The primary purpose of the annexation is to extend East Palestine's city sewage service into the nearby residential areas.

Because of the possibility of litigation over the question, the Election Board may order the full text of the question printed on the ballot, O'Hanlon said. The final decision will depend upon prices for ballots quoted by the contractor, the Wellsville Publishing Co.

Law gives the board the option of publishing the full text on the ballot or using only a brief form on the ticket and posting the full text of the proposal in each precinct. The board expects to turn over copy to the printer this afternoon, O'Hanlon said.

The board's action raises to 11 the number of special questions and issues that will appear on the May 8 ballot. The other 10 were filed by early March.

Will Raze Plant

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — The former Light Alloys Co. plant, described by Painesville city officials as one of the community's worst eyesores, will be razed. Council Monday night ordered demolition of the two-story brick building vacated by the alloys company 2½ years ago. The city owns the building.

row approximately $2,500 this morning in order to meet the payroll today for the first half of March, Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper advised Council. Exclusive of the water and sewage departments, the semi-monthly payroll today totals about $28,000.

The city will borrow at banks on short-term notes, retiring the debt when it receives the next settlement of real estate and personal property taxes from Lisbon.

Law allows the city to borrow up to 50 per cent of the amount anticipated in a future tax settlement. The city already has received a certificate that it can expect $95,000 in a settlement in April or May.

The solicitor pointed out the legislation puts a "ceiling" on the amount the city may borrow, but it will not necessarily go into debt for the full amount. Council was advised by its finance committee March 5 that it might be necessary to borrow to meet the next payroll.

Although a new city income tax went into effect March 2, it will produce very little in new revenue until May. That's when employers are scheduled to turn over to the city the first installment of tax funds which they have withheld from their workers' wages.

Council also approved an amended appropriation ordinance providing $575 in the income tax department and $750 for the incinerator department.

The legislation earmarks $375 of the income tax fund for office salaries and $200 for postage to be used in mailing notices to persons who failed to pay the tax in 1961. The money was transferred within the department. It formerly had been set up for printing of forms and supplies.

The incinerator department's $750 will be used to rebuild a structure at the landfill dump in Bloomfield which was razed by a fire about three weeks ago. The building houses the bulldozer used to cover refuse at the dump.

Referring to the city's hard-pressed financial condition, Councilman George E. Willshaw, finance committee chairman, said Chief Charles Bryan has been "perturbed" because the fire department's creditors have started to press him for payment of bills.

Willshaw said the American-LaFrance Co., manufacturer of fire trucks and equipment, has advised the chief no more credit will be extended after April 1. The company is pressing the city for payment of three bills in 1961, he related. Other bills are outstanding for installation of radio equipment in fire trucks and more are due local suppliers, he added.

"I assured the chief we know of the bills and we will do everything possible after the first of the month to take care of them, "Willshaw told Council.

Police Clear Airman In Death Of Woman

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Police say lie detector tests and investigation have completely exhonerated Air Force Lt. Joseph S. Shannon, 25, of the death of Mrs. Ann Coble Mielke.

The 35-year-old divorcee died of smoke inhalation Thursday. Police say the death was accidental. Shannon was held after he discovered the body in the woman's apartment where a bed had been burned.

3 Dwellings To Be Moved

Clearing the way for construction of a new substation near the city filtration plant on Michigan Ave., the first of three homes to be moved from the site will be trundled to a new location starting about midnight Wednesday.

The one-story frame home at 2207 Ohio Ave. was purchased from the Ohio Power Co. by Ray Adkins, field superintendent for Chapin & Chapin, Inc., one of the contractors for the city freeway.

Adkins, who also purchased two other frame homes on the site, is having the house moved to the 1000 block on St. George St. near Mulberry St.

Paul Coppock of New Waterford, who has handled several house moving jobs in the city, is moving the building. He posted a bond with the city for any damages to city property.

Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and Safety-Service Director Robert Owen said they are not sure when or where the other two homes will be moved.

The utility purchased the four homes on the site about a year ago. There are no plans at present to remove the fourth building, a two-story home, William Williams, Ohio Power Co. manager, said.

The new substation, expected to cost in excess of $560,000, will be located on the tract adjoining the filtration plant and across Bushwick St. from the present substation, Williams said.

Clermont Will Stick To Balanced Budget

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP) — Clermont County commissioners say they will stick to their budget-balancing appropriations even if it means laying off sheriff's deputies.

Sheriff Clyde Dericks asked for more money Monday, saying he will go over his $72,000 annual appropriation unless he cuts off help. The commissioners told Dericks they will try to give him an extra $20,000, but that he will have to lay off deputies if that is not enough.

Informed sources said it was ony a matter of time before intervention was decreed for the five other provinces where Peronists won governorships with the small but vocal support of Communists and admirers of Fidel Castro.

Frondizi's decree said the action was necessary to preserve the republican form of government in Argentina.

Election returns indicated that as many as 45 pro-Peron candidates won congressional seats and Frondizi's Intransigent Radical party lost its majority. Normally all those elected Sunday would take office May 1.

There was no confirmation of reports that a wholesale Cabinet reshuffle was in the works. So far the president had accepted resignations from Interior Minister Alfredo Vitolo, Health Minister Hector Noblia and Public Works Minister Jose Mazar Barnet.

Frondizi, gaunt and tired-looking, gingerly threaded his way through a maze of military and civilian opposition in an effort to keep his four-year-old regime afloat despite the shattering blow his prestige suffered at the polls.

Peronists threatened to stage a nationwide strike.

Lisbon Council Turns Down Insurance Plan

LISBON — Council discussed a proposed employes hospitalization plan but advised the group at a special meeting Monday night that the village cannot go along on financing the costs. The group said it would check on how many employes might want to pay for it themselves.

Council also discussed finances for the coming year and said it has been unable to come up with any drastic cuts which would help the budget. Also discussed was the public hearing April 2 to promote the 3-mill levy on the May ballot to produce about $18,000 more per year for the general fund.

Out Of The Air

By ALAN GILL

A Fukuwajutusu From Manhattan

Last Sunday night on "The Jack Benny Program," an old pro named Jack Benny gave plenty of elbow room to a young pro named Shari Lewis. Miss Lewis sang, danced, played the piano and the violin, did magic tricks, and chatted with her puppets. Mr. Benny folded his arms and said, "Well!" This multiple-threat little lady, who has hair as red as the setting sun and eyes like high noon, is in awe of Mr. Benny, to say the least.

Alan Gill

"I'VE HAD occasion to meet a number of famous people," she said, as she packed away a large meal the other night, "and I generally can hold my own. But the first time I met Mr. Benny, I just managed to say hello and I was through for the session.

"Oh, it's not that he's formidable or anything. He's just — well, great. And he's the sweetest, most consid—"

But let's cut it off there. You've heard all this about Jack Benny before, and I'm anxious to get on to Shari Lewis-in-Japan.

First, a few facts I find personally interesting. It's nice, I think, that the writer and composer of "The Shari Lewis Show," which claims the attention of the short set every Saturday morning, are named Saul Turtletaub and Lan O'Kun.

The show specialized in puppets (Lamb Chop, Charlie Horse, Wing Ding, Hush Puppy;, well-chosen guests (Tom Bosley, Pierre Olaf, Paul Hartman, Margaret Hamilton) and animals (a lion which almost ate Miss Lewis and, coming up April 7, a baby elephant). On to Japan.

"JEREMY AND I," she said — Jeremy Tarcher is her husband, is in the publishing business and hovers over her like a conscience —"went off to Bali, Hong Kong, Hawaii, Japan and, with the Ed Sullivan troupe, to West Germany last summer.

"We're terribly interested in puppets from all over the world and we seek them out. In Frankfurt, we went through Johann Wolfgang Goethe's house and discovered, 'way up there in an attic, the old puppet stage that used to afford the home entertainment for Goethe and his family.

"Great writers, you know, like George Sand, used to write for the puppet theater. It was a big thing in Europe and still is.

"WE'VE COLLECTED all kinds of puppets, including the old German porcelain puppets and the Napoleonic china ones. In Japan we were lucky enough to get a set of the Bunraku-za life-size puppets. The old puppeteer was selling them to obtain a dowry for his daughter.

"At the Bunraku-za, the masked puppeteers stand behind these tremendous puppets. You're not supposed to see them. Only the master puppeteer, in the middle, has his face uncovered.

"He works the head of his puppet with a wooden stick, and he has his arm inserted in the puppet's right arm.

"The second apprentice has to be a veteran of 10 years before he's allowed to work the feet of his puppet and then another 10 years before he can work the left hand. After 30 years he may become a master puppeteer.

"WE WERE privileged to meet the master puppeteer of all Japan. He is 93 years old and called Living National Treasure. We also met the oldest geisha puppeteer. She's 73. Think of that!

"I was on the Japanese television of 'I've Got a Secret,' and my secret was that I am a fukuwajutusu — I think that's how it's spelled — from New York. The word means ventriloquist.

"The Japanese are lovely. We went third class to Nikko so we could rub shoulders with the Japanese.

"We were with a number of college students and I showed them I knew about origami — paper cutouts. I made a fish puppet and they loved it.

"They had had four months of English and they all went into a huddle and then one of them came forward and said, very carefully, 'John Kennedy, he good president?' We said, 'We don't know yet. Time will tell.'

"They were shocked. If they asked the same question today, I guess I'd say, 'Oh, very good.'"

Mother Says Shooting Of Son Was Accident

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—An 11-year-old Kettering boy, Francis X. Sponenberger, was shot fatally Monday by his mother who claims the shooting was an accident, Kettering police report.

Police pieced together this account of the shooting:

Francis, who had stayed home from school because of a minor illness, was on a living room couch when his mother, Mrs. Jean Sponenberger, 35, came into the room with a .22 caliber automatic which she had been examining in the kitchen.

Mrs. Sponenberger had taken the clip from the weapon and left it in the kitchen. When she bent over the boy to see how he was the youth suddenly jumped from the couch screaming and in the excitement the gun discharged.

Sand Slide Fatal

Final Step Set In Sewer Job

Final enabling legislation will be presented April 2 for a sanitary sewer to serve 42 homes in a newly built-up section of Fisher Park, Council agreed Monday night.

Council acted after hearing a report on the status of the plans from Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper. The solicitor was authorized to prepare two pieces of legislation—the "determining ordinance," in which the city formally determines to proceed with the project, and an ordinance authorizing a bond issue to finance the work in anticipation of the collection of special assessments from property-owners.

The enactment of the two will clear the way for the administration to call for bids and enter into a contract for the work, Cooper said. The work might get underway by May 1 and be completed by mid-June, he said.

The homes now are served by septic tanks. They lie in the rear of the residential area — a section not served by a sewer installed five or six years ago. Forty-one of the 42 property-owners have signed a petition for the work.

Cooper told Council formal notices of the project have been served on property-owners and engineering work has been completed. He pointed out the first enabling legislation, a resolution of necessity, was approved in 1961.

Final Details Reported

Jaycees Plan To Enlarge Home, Sport Show Space

The annual Home and Sport Show April 4-7 has been enlarged, Robert Brooks, chairman, announced in presenting the final report at the general membership meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Monday night at the Travelers Hotel.

Brooks said 54 booth spaces have been sold to date and the figure could reach 60. Last year, there were 45 participants.

It will be at the former American Paper Products Co. building on Walnut St. The building was cleaned partially by a work party Saturday.

Insurance contracts were signed at a meeting Wednesday at the home of Richard Hunsicker in East End. Anyone interested in obtaining the six remaining spaces may contact Brooks at 385-4005 or 385-9927.

Brooks said a new section of the building has been opened to accommodate the additional displays. The booth arrangement has been changed this year to provide for a smoother flow of spectators.

Several boat displays are included this year as well as the new exhibitors.

The show is held annually to provide a central place for area merchants to display their new spring lines to the public.

Brooks asked the membership to report Monday, April 2, for the final all-out cleaning effort to ready the building. A Canton firm will set up the backdrops for the displays.

Various free prizes and gifts will be presented the general public. A prize will be given by the Jaycees every hour on the hour and a grand prize of a deep freeze will be offered Saturday, the final day.

The show will be open from 6 to 10:30 p. m. Wednesday through Friday and from 1 to 10:30 on Saturday.

The booths will be guarded at all times, Brooks said. Jaycees will remain in the building all night and a deputy sheriff will be present during the morning and afternoon.

A refreshment stand will be operated by the Jaycee-ettes. The "Telemobile," containing the newest inovations and scientific discoveries of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., will be parked in front of the building as an extra attraction.

The Rev. Gene Toot gave the invocation. Thirty-one were present. Guests included Robert Garner, Michael O'Farrell, John Ferlaino and Vince LaNeve.

Dave Kennedy, chairman, reported on the annual post-prom party to be held at Westgate School after the junior - senior dance at the Memorial Auditorium May 18. He said committee assignments have been made. Professional entertainment will be provided.

Glenn B. Roberts, superintendent of community relations for the Crucible Steel Co. of Midland, was guest speaker. He discussed modern business and politics. He was introduced by Mike Roberts, program chairman.

Jack Hales, secretary, said the city will host a District 5 meeting Arpil 24 at the Elks Lodge.

A district vice president will be elected and the district Speak-Up Jaycee contest will be held. State officers will be guests. Candidates for state offices have been invited to speak.

Webber announced Dale Kidd has been named chairman of the Easter sunrise service at Patterson Field. The event is held in conjunction with the East Liverpool Ministerial Association.

Hales reported on the All-State meeting held at Canton.

$20,000 Action Filed

LISBON — Grace Gross of East Rochester R. D. 1 filed a $20,000 action Monday in Common Pleas Court, naming as defendant Nora Baker of Bergholz. The petition alleges the plaintiff was injured in a crash with the defendant's auto July 16, 1961, at the intersection of County Rds. 402 and 403.

Action Slated On Fiscal Bill

Council agreed last night to meet in special session Monday night at 7 to consider the annual appropriation ordinance, setting the fiscal pattern for municipal government in 1962.

The action was taken after Councilman George E. Willshaw, chairman, said the finance committee will meet tonight with Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper, hoping to put the final touches on the legislation. Then the lengthy ordinance will be turned over to Cooper to be typewritten and run off on a rotary duplicating machine—a job that will require three or four days, Willshaw said.

Because of the new income tax legislation enacted March 2, the city's anticipated revenue for next year will be upped by $150,000. Willshaw explained the city has received an amended certificate of estimated resources from the County Budget Commission authorizing it to appropriate the additional $150,000. The appropriation must be based on the county agency's estimates, which list anticipated income from all sources.

Since Jan. 1, the city has been operating on a temporary three-month appropriation which provided principally for payrolls and routine operating expenses through March 31.

Following Monday night's special session, Council will meet at 7:30 with Mayor Bert H. Goodballet in his office. Safety - Service Director Robert Owen presented the request for the conference to Council last night, but did not specify the subjects to be discussed.

Akron Education Board To Set Up Citizen Seminars

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The Akron Board of Education plans to organize a series of seminars for citizens next month in an effort to analyze the school district's educational program and financing.

The board acted Monday night on the public participating study recommended by Dr. Clinton D. Barrett, chairman of the Coordination and Planning Committee.

Dr. Barrett said he proposed the study because "the state's share of the cost of operating Ohio schools has dwindled from 48 per cent in 1935 to about 30 per cent in 1962.

"This trend has forced local property taxes to carry an ever-growing load for the support of public schools."

Adoption of the seminar program came after the Ohio School Boards Association had invited the Akron board and others throughout the state to join in a study and action program. The OSBA program is aimed at informing the public about classroom activities and future educational needs.

A committee appointed by the Akron board is to conduct the seminars, to be followed by discussions at which findings will be reviewed for the citizens.

Robbery Indictment Ruled As Invalid

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — Common Pleas Court Judge Ernest E. Winters says the armed robbery indictment against George J. Moore Jr., 22, of near Kingston, Ohio, is invalid because the word "dollars" was left out.

Moore is charged with taking about $2,000 in the robbery of the Western Union office here in January. He is being held on the armed robbery warrant pending action by the May grand jury.

Out Of The Air

A Fukuwajutusu From Manhattan

Last Sunday night on "The Jack Benny Program," an old pro named Jack Benny gave plenty of elbow room to a young pro named Shari Lewis. Miss Lewis sang, danced, played the piano and the violin, did magic tricks, and chatted with her puppets. Mr. Benny folded his arms and said, "Well!" This multiple-threat little lady, who has hair as red as the setting sun and eyes like high noon, is in awe of Mr. Benny, to say the least.

"I'VE HAD occasion to meet a number of famous people," she said, as she packed away a large meal the other night, "and I generally can hold my own. But the first time I met Mr. Benny, I just managed to say hello and I was through for the session.

"Oh, it's not that he's formidable or anything. He's just — well, great. And he's the sweetest, most consid—"

But let's cut it off there. You've heard all this about Jack Benny before, and I'm anxious to get on to Shari Lewis-in-Japan.

First, a few facts I find personally interesting. It's nice, I think, that the writer and composer of "The Shari Lewis Show," which claims the attention of the short set every Saturday morning, are named Saul Turtletaub and Lan O'Kun.

The show specialized in puppets (Lamb Chop, Charlie Horse, Wing Ding, Hush Puppy;, well-chosen guests (Tom Bosley, Pierre Olaf, Paul Hartman, Margaret Hamilton) and animals (a lion which almost ate Miss Lewis and, coming up April 7, a baby elephant). On to Japan.

"JEREMY AND I," she said — Jeremy Tarcher is her husband, is in the publishing business and hovers over her like a conscience —"went off to Bali, Hong Kong, Hawaii, Japan and, with the Ed Sullivan troupe, to West Germany last summer.

"We're terribly interested in puppets from all over the world and we seek them out. In Frankfurt, we went through Johann Wolfgang Goethe's house and discovered, 'way up there in an attic, the old puppet stage that used to afford the home entertainment for Goethe and his family.

"Great writers, you know, like George Sand, used to write for the puppet theater. It was a big thing in Europe and still is.

"WE'VE COLLECTED all kinds of puppets, including the old German porcelain puppets and the Napoleonic china ones. In Japan we were lucky enough to get a set of the Bunraku-za life-size puppets. The old puppeteer was selling them to obtain a dowry for his daughter.

"At the Bunraku-za, the masked puppeteers stand behind these tremendous puppets. You're not supposed to see them. Only the master puppeteer, in the middle, has his face uncovered.

"He works the head of his puppet with a wooden stick, and he has his arm inserted in the puppet's right arm.

"The second apprentice has to be a veteran of 10 years before he's allowed to work the feet of his puppet and then another 10 years before he can work the left hand. After 30 years he may become a master puppeteer.

"WE WERE privileged to meet the master puppeteer of all Japan. He is 93 years old and called Living National Treasure. We also met the oldest geisha puppeteer. She's 73. Think of that!

"I was on the Japanese television of 'I've Got a Secret,' and my secret was that I am a fukuwajutusu — I think that's how it's spelled — from New York. The word means ventriloquist.

"The Japanese are lovely. We went third class to Nikko so we could rub shoulders with the Japanese.

"We were with a number of college students and I showed them I knew about origami — paper cutouts. I made a fish puppet and they loved it.

"They had had four months of English and they all went into a huddle and then one of them came forward and said, very carefully, 'John Kennedy, he good president?' We said, 'We don't know yet. Time will tell.'

"They were shocked. If they asked the same question today, I guess I'd say, 'Oh, very good.'"

Mother Says Shooting Of Son Was Accident

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—An 11-year-old Kettering boy, Francis X. Sponenberger, was shot fatally Monday by his mother who claims the shooting was an accident, Kettering police report.

Police pieced together this account of the shooting:

Francis, who had stayed home from school because of a minor illness, was on a living room couch when his mother, Mrs. Jean Sponenberger, 35, came into the room with a .22 caliber automatic which she had been examining in the kitchen.

Mrs. Sponenberger had taken the clip from the weapon and left it in the kitchen. When she bent over the boy to see how he was the youth suddenly jumped from the couch screaming and in the excitement the gun discharged.

Final Step Set In Sewer Job

Final enabling legislation will be presented April 2 for a sanitary sewer to serve 42 homes in a newly built-up section of Fisher Park, Council agreed Monday night.

Council acted after hearing a report on the status of the plans from Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper. The solicitor was authorized to prepare two pieces of legislation—the "determining ordinance," in which the city formally determines to proceed with the project, and an ordinance authorizing a bond issue to finance the work in anticipation of the collection of special assessments from property-owners.

The enactment of the two will clear the way for the administration to call for bids and enter into a contract for the work, Cooper said. The work might get underway by May 1 and be completed by mid-June, he said.

The homes now are served by septic tanks. They lie in the rear of the residential area — a section not served by a sewer installed five or six years ago. Forty-one of the 42 property-owners have signed a petition for the work.

Cooper told Council formal notices of the project have been served on property-owners and engineering work has been completed. He pointed out the first enabling legislation, a resolution of necessity, was approved in 1961.

Final Details Reported

Jaycees Plan To Enlarge Home, Sport Show Space

The annual Home and Sport Show April 4-7 has been enlarged, Robert Brooks, chairman, announced in presenting the final report at the general membership meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Monday night at the Travelers Hotel.

Brooks said 54 booth spaces have been sold to date and the figure could reach 60. Last year, there were 45 participants.

It will be at the former American Paper Products Co. building on Walnut St. The building was cleaned partially by a work party Saturday.

Insurance contracts were signed at a meeting Wednesday at the home of Richard Hunsicker in East End. Anyone interested in obtaining the six remaining spaces may contact Brooks at 385-4005 or 385-9927.

Brooks said a new section of the building has been opened to accommodate the additional displays. The booth arrangement has been changed this year to provide for a smoother flow of spectators.

Several boat displays are included this year as well as the new exhibitors.

The show is held annually to provide a central place for area merchants to display their new spring lines to the public.

Brooks asked the membership to report Monday, April 2, for the final all-out cleaning effort to ready the building. A Canton firm will set up the backdrops for the displays.

Various free prizes and gifts will be presented the general public. A prize will be given by the Jaycees every hour on the hour and a grand prize of a deep freeze will be offered Saturday, the final day.

The show will be open from 6 to 10:30 p. m. Wednesday through Friday and from 1 to 10:30 on Saturday.

The booths will be guarded at all times, Brooks said. Jaycees will remain in the building all night and a deputy sheriff will be present during the morning and afternoon.

A refreshment stand will be operated by the Jaycee-ettes. The "Telemobile," containing the newest inovations and scientific discoveries of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., will be parked in front of the building as an extra attraction.

The Rev. Gene Toot gave the invocation. Thirty-one were present. Guests included Robert Garner, Michael O'Farrell, John Ferlaino and Vince LaNeve.

Dave Kennedy, chairman, reported on the annual post-prom party to be held at Westgate School after the junior - senior dance at the Memorial Auditorium May 18. He said committee assignments have been made. Professional entertainment will be provided.

Glenn B. Roberts, superintendent of community relations for the Crucible Steel Co. of Midland, was guest speaker. He discussed modern business and politics. He was introduced by Mike Roberts, program chairman.

Jack Hales, secretary, said the city will host a District 5 meeting Arpil 24 at the Elks Lodge.

A district vice president will be elected and the district Speak-Up Jaycee contest will be held. State officers will be guests. Candidates for state offices have been invited to speak.

Webber announced Dale Kidd has been named chairman of the Easter sunrise service at Patterson Field. The event is held in conjunction with the East Liverpool Ministerial Association.

Hales reported on the All-State meeting held at Canton.

Action Slated On Fiscal Bill

Council agreed last night to meet in special session Monday night at 7 to consider the annual appropriation ordinance, setting the fiscal pattern for municipal government in 1962.

The action was taken after Councilman George E. Willshaw, chairman, said the finance committee will meet tonight with Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper, hoping to put the final touches on the legislation. Then the lengthy ordinance will be turned over to Cooper to be typewritten and run off on a rotary duplicating machine—a job that will require three or four days, Willshaw said.

Because of the new income tax legislation enacted March 2, the city's anticipated revenue for next year will be upped by $150,000. Willshaw explained the city has received an amended certificate of estimated resources from the County Budget Commission authorizing it to appropriate the additional $150,000. The appropriation must be based on the county agency's estimates, which list anticipated income from all sources.

Since Jan. 1, the city has been operating on a temporary three-month appropriation which provided principally for payrolls and routine operating expenses through March 31.

Following Monday night's special session, Council will meet at 7:30 with Mayor Bert H. Goodballet in his office. Safety - Service Director Robert Owen presented the request for the conference to Council last night, but did not specify the subjects to be discussed.

Akron Education Board To Set Up Citizen Seminars

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The Akron Board of Education plans to organize a series of seminars for citizens next month in an effort to analyze the school district's educational program and financing.

The board acted Monday night on the public participating study recommended by Dr. Clinton D. Barrett, chairman of the Coordination and Planning Committee.

Dr. Barrett said he proposed the study because "the state's share of the cost of operating Ohio schools has dwindled from 48 per cent in 1935 to about 30 per cent in 1962.

"This trend has forced local property taxes to carry an ever-growing load for the support of public schools."

Adoption of the seminar program came after the Ohio School Boards Association had invited the Akron board and others throughout the state to join in a study and action program. The OSBA program is aimed at informing the public about classroom activities and future educational needs.

A committee appointed by the Akron board is to conduct the seminars, to be followed by discussions at which findings will be reviewed for the citizens.

LISBON — Grace Gross of East Rochester R. D. 1 filed a $20,000 action Monday in Common Pleas Court, naming as defendant Nora Baker of Bergholz. The petition alleges the plaintiff was injured in a crash with the defendant's auto July 16, 1961, at the intersection of County Rds. 402 and 403.

Robbery Indictment Ruled As Invalid

Moore is charged with taking about $2,000 in the robbery of the Western Union office here in January. He is being held on the armed robbery warrant pending action by the May grand jury.

PTA To Launch Plans For Voting

Preparing for election of officers in April, a nominating committee headed by Delmar Harold will report at a meeting of the Beaver Local Public School Parent-Teacher Association Monday night at the school.

Carl Mansfield will report on the work of the Community Rescue Mission in connection with a $12,000 fund drive the agency will open Monday. Principal speaker will be Dr. Harold Peterson, Steubenville orthodontist, who will screen a film.

Mrs. Romana Campbell, sixth grade teacher, will be in charge of the program. Final plans will be made for a "spring roundup"—a general meeting of all school organizations — on April 9. Plans also will be aired for a skating party April 30 at the Kay Bee Rink at Cannons Mills. Refreshments will be served by sixth grade mothers.

5 Other Local Cagers Make Honorable Mention List

By HAL PARIS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Little Dan Neff of unbeaten Ayersville leads a talented array of sizzling stars that make up The Associated Press' Class A All-Ohio high school basketball team for 1962.

Neff, a dynamic 5-foot-10 performer who has spearheaded his Defiance County mates to 57 straight victories over a two-year span, made a runaway of the race for No. 1 player honors.

Spires' teammate and fine outside shot Bob Mills was accorded honorable mention along with John Hanna and Jerry Schaffer of United Local, Crestview's junior center Jim Kress and Dale Murphy of Columbiana.

The classy quintet boasts a tremendous scoring punch. They have poured in points at a 122.3 clip. McDonald, whose brother Bill won a berth on last year's squad, paced the way with a 27-point average.

Neff, who produced at a 20.5 pace, and Peters, the Dixie dandy who fired at a 24.5 rate, figure to stage a stirring duel Friday afternoon when Ayersville, the defending champion, and Dixie lock horns in a semi-final tiff at St. John Arena in the state high school tournament.

Only four other players scheduled for action in the state meet were accorded honors. Beverly Fort Frye's big gun, Jack Clark, was a second team choice, and Ayersville's John Bricker nailed down a third team berth. Fort Frye's Gary Bates and Andy Ahijewych of Berlin Hiland landed among the honorable mentions.

Neff's selection as player of the year brought still another honor to his school. Last week, Ayersville Coach Lee Himmerger was named Class A mentor of the year for the second straight time.

If the Pilots cop the state tournament, they'll boast the coach and player of the year and become the first Class A team ever to win the title three times.

The selections, based on regular - season games only, were made from the more than 10,000 boys on the state's 500 Class A squads.

Bradley, Duquesne Square Off In NIT

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bradley's nationally ranked Braves and St. John's of New York open their drives for the 1962 National Invitation basketball tournament title tonight against a pair of eager opponents who could prove extremely hard to handle for the two seeded powers.

Bradley (21-6) meets Duquesne (21-5) in the opener of the quarter-final doubleheader at Madison Square Garden and St. John's (19-4) plays Holy Cross (20-5) in the second game. The winners advance to Thursday night's semi-finals, which also match Loyola of Chicago against Dayton.

While Bradley and St. John's were sitting out the first round with byes, Holy Cross and Duquesne were impressively busy. The Crusaders disposed of Colorado State University 72-71 in a rugged squeaker Saturday afternoon and the Dukes followed with a 70-58 rout of Navy.

Bradley's chief threat, of course, is two-time All-America Chet Walker, the versatile 6-6 star who paced the Braves to the 1960 NIT title as a sophomore. Ed Wodka, Lee Edwards and Mickey Tiemann are Bradley's other seasoned regulars, while backcourt men Lavern Tart and Rich Williams are sophomore standouts.

Duquesne was hardly tested against Navy and its performance was something less than inspired. But Bradley coach Chuck Orsborn was not lulled—and for good reason.

St. John's Redmen, who haven't been in action since nailing down supremacy of the New York area with a conquest of NYU 11 nights ago, have the problem of spiking a potential double-barreled weapon in their game with Holy Cross. Jack Foley, as usual, showed his patented scoring bursts with 34 points against Colorado State. But the Crusaders had a surprise gunner in Bob Foley, no relation to The Shot, who went 13 points above his average with 21 points and also was a bruiser under the boards.

Holy Cross' main project will be containing LeRoy Ellis, a 6-10 pivot with fluid moves and sprinter's speed. Ellis teams with spunky Kevin Loughery and sturdy Willie Hall up front, while Ivan Kovac and Donnie Burks handle St. John's playmaking.

Havlicek Stops The Best . . .

Cotton Nash, the talented sophomore from the University of Kentucky, probably wouldn't have received All-American honors this season had he played against a guy like John Havlicek game after game, and neither would anyone else.

As the Ohio State-Kentucky contest wore on in the first half the television announcer noted that Havlicek hadn't scored, but Nash hadn't done much in the scoring column either.

Havlicek held the Kentucky All-American to nine points under his 23 per game average, and that was about the 10-point difference in Saturday's regional final at Iowa City. Big John also managed to score 13.

And why should Havlicek have to worry about scoring since Jerry Lucas was having one of the most phenomenal first halves of his career, with 25 points.

FRIDAY night Coach Fred Taylor's bench strength and the not-so-much-heard-about-players beat Western Kentucky into submission. Saturday, it was Lucas. His four three-point plays in the first half meant the difference at halftime.

That's Lucas for you, a real All-American. Why get only two points when you can score three?

Rematch Likely . . .

THE chances for an Ohio State-Cincinnati rematch at Louisville, Ky., this weekend are very good. Ohio State already defeated its opponent — Wake Forest — once in the regular season, but that was early in the campaign, possibly before All-American Len Chappell and his mates hit their winning form.

Cincinnati, back to defend its NCAA title won in upset fashion over Ohio State last year at Kansas City, had two easy triumphs along the road to the national semi-finals. Saturday's victory was a complete rout when the Bearcats scored a 73-46 win over Colorado.

TAYLOR'S Buckeyes seem to be in pretty good shape for next year. We don't think anyone will be able to replace Lucas, but Ohio State has a dandy sophomore in Gary Bradds, a 6-foot-8 performer from Jamestown, Ohio.

Bradds, who stands the same height as Lucas, turned in a key job of replacing Lucas when the All-American was charged with his third personal foul in Friday's game with Western Kentucky.

OHIO State will lose Lucas, Havlicek and Mel Nowell off the starting unit, along with a key substitute, Gary Gearhart. Dick Reasbeck of Martins Ferry and Doug McDonald of Fostoria will be back to anchor next year's squad along with Bradds. Don Flatt of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Dick Taylor of Cuyahoga Falls, a couple of sphomores, looked impressive in the action at Iowa City. Also, there is no telling what will pop up out of this year's Buckeye freshman team.

Columbus And Louisville . . .

COLUMBUS and Louisville will be the hubs of basketball activity this weekend.

Eight crack units from the Ohio high school ranks will vie for titles at St. John's arena. The Class AA lineup shows a well-balanced Hamilton Taft outfit undefeated in 25 games, unpredictable Canton Lincoln, comparative newcomer Lima Senior and the favorite, Cleveland East Tech.

There will be four undefeated units at Columbus this weekend. Hamilton and East Tech have the perfect marks in Class AA, while Ayersville and Fort Frye put unblemished marks on the line in Class A.

The Class A finalists also include Berlin Hiland, which eliminated Stanton Local in the District finals at Steubenville, and New Lebanon Dixie.

Fort Frye is coached by Carl Hamill Jr., son of the former Weirton coach. Young Hamill got his start in coaching at Brilliant High School about three years ago.

The best of the Class A players from this corner is also one of the smallest. He is 5-foot-9 Danny Neff, who was a standout for Ayersville last year when his team won the Class A crown. Neff popped in 29 points in Ayersville's victory over Holmes - Liberty, which put the defending champs on the road to Columbus once again.

OUR picks for the state titles—Cleveland East Tech and Ayersville. But if anybody sneaks in it will be the overall balance of Hamilton Taft in the AA ranks and Fort Frye in the Class A division.

Underdog Bruins Concede Nothing To Cincinnati

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The UCLA Bruins aren't given much chance to upset defending champion Cincinnati in the semifinals of the NCAA Basketball Tournament Friday night at Louisville.

But Bruin Coach John Wooden is conceding nothing. He's the man who took a group of players who were picked to finish third in the Big Five Conference and molded them into the NCAA Western Regional champs.

"We won't be able to run on Cincinnati like we did against Oregon State," Wooden told the Los Angeles basketball writers Monday. "They're a bit quicker than Oregon State and they play good defense."

Nichols Wins At St. Pete

By DUKE FERGUSON

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Bobby Nichols, winner of the 20,000 St. Petersburg Open, appears to be a young man on his way up in the golfing world.

The 25-year-old professional, playing out of Midland, Tex., picked up a $2,800 check after posting an 8-under-par 64 in the final round Monday and headed for the $50,000 Doral Open in Miami. Nichols' blazing finish gave him a 272 and a two-stroke edge over runner-up Frank Boynton of Corpus Christi, Tex.

Defending champion Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla., finished third, two strokes behind Boynton. He closed with a 66 for 276 and $1,400.

Underdog Bruins Concede Nothing To Cincinnati

But Bruin Coach John Wooden is conceding nothing. He's the man who took a group of players who were picked to finish third in the Big Five Conference and molded them into the NCAA Western Regional champs.

"We won't be able to run on Cincinnati like we did against Oregon State," Wooden told the Los Angeles basketball writers Monday. "They're a bit quicker than Oregon State and they play good defense."

Pender Faces Downes In April 7 Bout

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Paul Pender figures he has a big extra going for him in the April 7 rematch with Terry Downes—a burning desire to regain the middleweight championship.

Pender took time out from his fight camp routine Monday night and discussed his Boston Garden bout with the Englishman. Downes, whose crown is recognized in Massachusetts, New York and Europe, lifted the title from Pender in London last summer.

"I've got something extra to fight for this time," a smiling, confident Pender said. "After all, I had the title in our two earlier fights."

When asked if he planned to win back the championship, Pender said, "You can bet on it."

Pender pointed out Downes' hesitation at fulfilling the rematch clause for the coming fight, saying it orginally was set for Sept. 23, then January.

"Downes has done a lot of talking but not much action," Pender said. "At first he said he would not fight me again. Now he finds he's got no place else to go. I think he's held off this long trying to hold the title as long as he can."

If Pender beats Downes as he says he intends, he'll be willing to meet NBA middleweight champ Gene Fullmer as early as June to settle the disputed crown. Pender said a fight with Fullmer was almost made when Paul signed for the big money against Downes in England.

Nats Defeat Warriors In Playoff Tilt

By The Associated Press

The Syracuse Nats suddenly have found new life in the National Basketball League Eastern Division semifinal playoffs, thanks to rookie Lee Shaffer, who in four seconds changed from the goat of the game to the hero.

With their backs to the wall, the Nats, down 2-0 in their best-of-5 series with Philadelphia, bounced back to defeat the Warriors at Philadelphia 101-100 in the only playoff action Monday night.

The victory came on Shaffer's field goal from the corner with 1:20 left in the game. That completed the scoring and gave Shaffer, who once played for Warrior's Coach Frank McGuire at North Carolina, a total of 30 points, high for the Nats. Only four seconds before his field goal, Shaffer missed two free throws.

The series moves back to Syracuse tonight and the Warriors could wrap it up. If they don't, the deciding game will be played at Philadelphia Thursday night.

Tony Jackson Keeps Majors In Contention

Jump-shooting Tony Jackson's accuracy from outside has been instrumental in keeping the Chicago Majors in contention for the Eastern Division lead during the second half of the American Basketball League season.

The former St. John's All-America collected 34 points—including seven 3-point field goals — as the Majors whipped the Hawaii Chiefs 112-108 Monday night in the only game played.

In closing its home season, Chicago moved into a virtual tie for second place with idle Pittsburgh. The Majors and Pittsburgh trail pace-setting Cleveland by one-half game.

'No Interviews,' Is Word From Yanks' Roger Maris

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Maris looked up.

"I'm fairly certain you've already been asked this question a thousand times," said the reporter, "but—what kind of a year do you expect?"

"I don't know," replied Maris.

"Do you think you'll reach 61 home runs this year?"

"I don't know," said Maris.

"How many home runs will you be satisfied to hit?"

"Don't know."

Maris looked at his companion.

"Well, what did you expect me to say?" he growled. "New guys but the same old questions. How the dickens do I know what kind of a year I'm going to have. And if there's anybody who can predict how many homers I'm going to hit, he doesn't belong on this earth. He belongs up there."

Maris continued, "Look, I'm not going to change. I can't even if I wanted to. And I don't want to. I'm me, Roger Maris. I could have fed him a whole load of baloney. But I'm no politician. I can't say things I don't mean. And when I've got nothing to say, I say nothing. If the guy wants to get sore let him. I can't help that."

Maris hasn't been treated kindly by the fans here. He has been booed, and when he left a game after suffering a rib injury, he was jeered. He blames a bad press. Maris reciprocated by clamming up.

"When I came down here," he said, "I had made up my mind I would try to answer every question, no matter how silly, as best I know how. So what happens? I pick up a paper and see where I'm uncooperative and unfriendly. The people read this trash and believe it. I don't blame them. That booing I got made me feel terrible.

"So, no more interviews. The writers are going to rip me if I talk or if I don't. So I'm not going to say anything and let them write what they please—they're going to write what they want anyway."

Paul Brown Due On Stand In Pro Football Battle

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ccach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns and Carroll Rosenbloom, president of the Baltimore Colts, were expected to testify today as the National Football League continued its defense in a $10 million antitrust suit.

The American Football League filed the suit, accusing the NFL of monopolistic practices and of expanding into Dallas and Minneapolis-St. Paul in an effort to undermine the new league.

The judge dismissed several charges at the conclusion of AFL testimony. The NFL began its defense Monday, and attorney Gerhard Gesell said he expected to wind up the case next week.

Lombardi testified that he advised two AFL coaches on how to get their teams started. He identified them as Lou Rymkus, former coach of the Houston Oilers, and Hank Stram, coach of the Dallas Texans.

The two men, Lombardi said, spent three days each with Packer officials in March and April of 1960. That was after the NFL had voted to expand into Dallas.

The expenditures for the two major sports totaled $10,894.76, leaving the Association with a bank balance as of March 13 of $391.27, less a bill of $303.78 owed Burbick Hardware Co. for football equipment.

Bright, Young Shortstop Hitting .417 For Angels

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

How ya gonna keep him down on the farm when he wins ball games for you—especially when he's 19 years old and powders 380-foot home runs?

His current phenom is rookie shortstop Jim Fregosi, from Woodside, Calif. All Fregosi has to do to nail down a job with the Angels is finish the exhibition season with a .250 batting average.

That shouldn't be too hard at the rate he's going. He whacked a 3-run inside the park home run Monday—a 380-foot shot—in the sixth inning to break a 2-2 tie and propel the Angels to a 6-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs, at Palm Springs, Calif.

Fregosi also had a single in four trips to the plate and that brought his average up to .417. Last year, he spent most of the season at Dallas-Fort Worth and finished with a .254 average and only a half-dozen homers.

The two New York clubs, the Yankees and the Mets, continued their streaks but in opposite directions. The world champions clobbered the Milwaukee Braves 10-4 at Fort Lauderdale, for their ninth victory without a defeat. The Mets dropped a 1-0 decision to the Baltimore Orioles at St. Petersburg to extend their losing skein to five. Skinny Brown and Tom Baker pitched the shutout.

In other games, the Boston Red Sox turned back the Cleveland Indians 2-1 at Scottsdale, Ariz.; the Houston Colts outlasted the San Francisco Giants 12-9 at Phoenix; the Los Angeles Dodgers downed the Kansas City A's 4-1 at West Palm Beach; The St. Louis Cardinals edged the Cincinnati Reds 5-4 at Tampa, and the Washington Senators outslugged the Chicago White Sox 15-12 at Pompano Beach.

Roger Maris, who still has not had a home run, collected a double and a triple to lead the Yanks' assault.

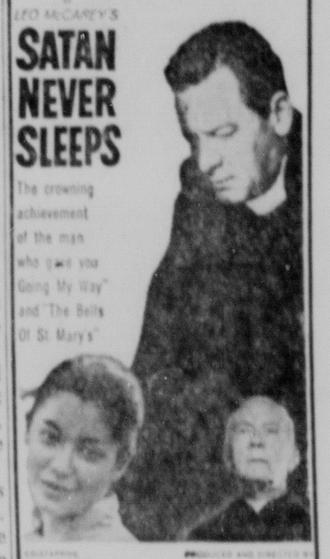

Bob Miller and Bob Botz combined to pitch a good game for the Mets, but they had no support. The only run came in the fifth off Miller on Brooks Robinson's triple and a fielder's choice.

The Colts combed Jack Sanford for 11 runs on 10 hits in the first four innings. And, as it turned out, they needed the barrage because the Giants came back strong.

The A's blanked the Dodgers behind Ed Rakow for six innings. Bill Fischer, who came in the seventh, was the victim of all the Dodgers' runs.

Jim Maloney, plagued by a sore arm last season, started for the Reds against the Cards and in three innings walked seven men and was tapped for three hits, good for four runs.

"Well, what did you expect me to say?" he growled. "New guys but the same old questions. How the dickens do I know what kind of a year I'm going to have. And if there's anybody who can predict how many homers I'm going to hit, he doesn't belong on this earth. He belongs up there."

Maris continued, "Look, I'm not going to change. I can't even if I wanted to. And I don't want to. I'm me, Roger Maris. I could have fed him a whole load of baloney. But I'm no politician. I can't say things I don't mean. And when I've got nothing to say, I say nothing. If the guy wants to get sore let him. I can't help that."

Maris hasn't been treated kindly by the fans here. He has been booed, and when he left a game after suffering a rib injury, he was jeered. He blames a bad press. Maris reciprocated by clamming up.

"When I came down here," he said, "I had made up my mind I would try to answer every question, no matter how silly, as best I know how. So what happens? I pick up a paper and see where I'm uncooperative and unfriendly. The people read this trash and believe it. I don't blame them. That booing I got made me feel terrible.

"So, no more interviews. The writers are going to rip me if I talk or if I don't. So I'm not going to say anything and let them write what they please—they're going to write what they want anyway."

Paul Brown Due On Stand In Pro Football Battle

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ccach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns and Carroll Rosenbloom, president of the Baltimore Colts, were expected to testify today as the National Football League continued its defense in a $10 million antitrust suit.

The American Football League filed the suit, accusing the NFL of monopolistic practices and of expanding into Dallas and Minneapolis-St. Paul in an effort to undermine the new league.

The judge dismissed several charges at the conclusion of AFL testimony. The NFL began its defense Monday, and attorney Gerhard Gesell said he expected to wind up the case next week.

Lombardi testified that he advised two AFL coaches on how to get their teams started. He identified them as Lou Rymkus, former coach of the Houston Oilers, and Hank Stram, coach of the Dallas Texans.

The two men, Lombardi said, spent three days each with Packer officials in March and April of 1960. That was after the NFL had voted to expand into Dallas.

Basketball Shows Surplus Of $1,130 At Wellsville

Basketball paid for itself easily the past season at Wellsville High School, providing a surplus of $1,130.08 after final expenditures, the annual financial report shows.

Don Lowe, faculty manager, said receipts for the 1961-62 season amounted to $3,556.82, and expenditures were $2,426.74.

Topping the receipts from the gate were Wellsville's home games with East Liverpool ($582.30) and Salem ($551.50).

The Athletic Association listed receipts for the year as $6,760.80 in football, $3,556.82 in basketball, and a bank balance of $968.41, totaling $11,286.03.

The expenditures for the two major sports totaled $10,894.76, leaving the Association with a bank balance as of March 13 of $391.27, less a bill of $303.78 owed Burbick Hardware Co. for football equipment.

Total surplus for operating the football and basketball programs for 1961-62 amounts to $87.49, plus the school's share of receipts from the Sectional AA basketball tournament of about $250.

Gate receipts from other games included Freedom, $246.70; Midland tournament, $221.41; Chester, $288.75; Weirton Madonna, $205.40; Beaver Local, $273.73; Steubenville Central, $235.45; Toronto, $287.16; Ambridge guarantee, $150; West Branch, $215.90; and faculty game, $34.35.

Other receipts were season tickets, $239.15, and an insurance check, $25.

Largest expenditures for the basketball program were $519.39 for equipment and $510 for officials, the report lists.

Other expenditures were employes, $376; scouting, $40; supplies for gym, $65.62; medical supplies, $150.35; transportation, $137.32; printing, $214.71; reconditioning, $54.73; letters, $33.62; guarantees, $150; state tournament tickets, $16; new check book, $5; police, $126, and cleaning, $28.

Bright, Young Shortstop Hitting .417 For Angels

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

How ya gonna keep him down on the farm when he wins ball games for you—especially when he's 19 years old and powders 380-foot home runs?

His current phenom is rookie shortstop Jim Fregosi, from Woodside, Calif. All Fregosi has to do to nail down a job with the Angels is finish the exhibition season with a .250 batting average.

That shouldn't be too hard at the rate he's going. He whacked a 3-run inside the park home run Monday—a 380-foot shot—in the sixth inning to break a 2-2 tie and propel the Angels to a 6-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs, at Palm Springs, Calif.

Fregosi also had a single in four trips to the plate and that brought his average up to .417. Last year, he spent most of the season at Dallas-Fort Worth and finished with a .254 average and only a half-dozen homers.

The two New York clubs, the Yankees and the Mets, continued their streaks but in opposite directions. The world champions clobbered the Milwaukee Braves 10-4 at Fort Lauderdale, for their ninth victory without a defeat. The Mets dropped a 1-0 decision to the Baltimore Orioles at St. Petersburg to extend their losing skein to five. Skinny Brown and Tom Baker pitched the shutout.

In other games, the Boston Red Sox turned back the Cleveland Indians 2-1 at Scottsdale, Ariz.; the Houston Colts outlasted the San Francisco Giants 12-9 at Phoenix; the Los Angeles Dodgers downed the Kansas City A's 4-1 at West Palm Beach; The St. Louis Cardinals edged the Cincinnati Reds 5-4 at Tampa, and the Washington Senators outslugged the Chicago White Sox 15-12 at Pompano Beach.

Roger Maris, who still has not had a home run, collected a double and a triple to lead the Yanks' assault.

Bob Miller and Bob Botz combined to pitch a good game for the Mets, but they had no support. The only run came in the fifth off Miller on Brooks Robinson's triple and a fielder's choice.

The Colts combed Jack Sanford for 11 runs on 10 hits in the first four innings. And, as it turned out, they needed the barrage because the Giants came back strong.

The A's blanked the Dodgers behind Ed Rakow for six innings. Bill Fischer, who came in the seventh, was the victim of all the Dodgers' runs.

Jim Maloney, plagued by a sore arm last season, started for the Reds against the Cards and in three innings walked seven men and was tapped for three hits, good for four runs.

Prices on Mercury Outboard Motors will not be increased for the approaching 1962 boating season HOWARD HINTON of HINTON MARINE has announced.
The statement by the local Mercury dealer came in answer to the many inquiries following price increases as high as $55 by Mercury's major competitors, Johnson and Evinrude the other 2 leading brands.
Commenting on the 1962 Pricing decision Mr. Hinton said, "We believe the rebounding marine industry needs not only quality products but also pricing that meets buyers budgets during any period of National Economic recovery.

Prices on Mercury Outboard Motors will not be increased for the approaching 1962 boating season HOWARD HINTON of HINTON MARINE has announced.
The statement by the local Mercury dealer came in answer to the many inquiries following price increases as high as $55 by Mercury's major competitors, Johnson and Evinrude the other 2 leading brands.
Commenting on the 1962 Pricing decision Mr. Hinton said, "We believe the rebounding marine industry needs not only quality products but also pricing that meets buyers budgets during any period of National Economic recovery.

"But, Rollo—apart from the broken tooth, wasn't it just about the best cherry pie you ever had?"

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I remove colored candlewax stains from table linens?

A. After scraping off as much of the excess wax as you can, place the stained portion between two pieces of blotting paper, and press with a warm iron. Most of the grease will be absorbed by the blotting paper. Then sponge with denatured alcohol to remove the dye.

Q. How can I keep that hard-to-remove substance from gathering on the sides of my pan when boiling sweet potatoes?

A. A half-teaspoon of bacon bacon drippings or other grease, added to the water in which sweet potatoes or other root vegetables are boiled will do the trick.

Q. How can I prolong the life of my brooms?

A. By dipping them occasionally into boiling suds — which makes them both tough and pliable.

Q. How can I waterproof or rainproof the inked address I have written on a package for mailing?

A. Rub a bit of furniture wax on a soft cloth and pass this lightly over your writing on the package. Then, no matter how hard it might rain on the package, the address will not blur.

Q. What can I do when I have inadvertenly added too much salt to food while cooking?

A. Stretch a clean cloth tightly over the vessel and sprinkle a tablespoon of flour over the cloth. The flour will absorb the salt, it allowed to steam for a few minutes.

Q. How can I straighten out a warped phonograph record?

A. One often-successful method is to place the record between two pieces of glass, and set it where the sun will shine on it for an hour or so.

Junior Editors Quiz on OIL

QUESTION: How is oil formed thousands of feet underground?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Billions of years ago, much of the land we live on was covered by the oceans. Tiny plants and animals died and sank to the bottom, decaying and mixing with mud and sand. This process went on over many centuries. Every now and then new layers formed on top of the old layers. These layers were covered with a thick layer of plain sand and mud which turned, in time, to rock. Then finally the waters receded. The land, now dry, swelled and contracted. There was a great amount of pressure. After millions of years, this pressure, plus heat, changed the decayed plant and animal deposits into oil. When prospectors look for oil today, they often keep their eyes open for what they call "marine sediments." These are the little plant and animal deposits in their layers of mud and sand. If they find the marine sediments, they feel that oil must be nearby. In some cases, the top layer is so thin that oil has been found lying on the ground, as in the picture above. The world's first oil well was drilled over a hundred years ago. Col. Edwin L. Drake experimented with this structure in Titusville, Pa. He was about to leave for his home in New England, considering the well a failure, when he found oil lying next to his well. With that discovery the modern oil industry was born.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Until Col. Drake drilled his well, oil wells were dug by hand. See if you can find out how an oil well works.

12 Plants List Increases In Payroll, Jobs

Healthy upturns marked several East Liverpool district indices in February, most notably increases in payrolls and total employment at 12 area industrial plants, the Chamber of Commerce pointed out today in its monthly summary of conditions.

Payrolls at the 12 plants hit $1,237,226 last month, up 10.4 per cent from the $1,120,800 shown in January. The payrolls total $2,385,026 for the year to date, a gain of 12.9 per cent from the $2,088,997 listed in the first two months of 1961.

The plants had 3,933 on the job in February, a gain of 5.6 per cent from the 3,724 employes they listed in January. Employment has averaged 3,829 monthly to date in 1962, off 0.03 per cent from the 3,840 average shown at the same time in 1961.

The gain in employment was accompanied by a leveling off in the city's relief load. The city listed 92 cases receiving aid in February, unchanged from January. The case load has averaged 92 per month to date in 1962, down 28.1 per cent from the average of 128 shown at the same time in 1961.

At Atlantic City Event

Unique 'Pottery Hats' To Help Publicize City

East Liverpool's claim to fame as the "Pottery Center of the World" will be emphasized in unusual headgear which 36 members of Sweet Adelines, Inc., will wear next weekend at Atlantic City, where they will go to take part in the organization's annual competition.

Mrs. Ann Claypool is shown with the hat she designed, emblematic of the pottery city. It is made of two simple items, felt and elastic. The cup and saucer, perched on the flower petals, will identify the chorus during "off-stage" hours at the Traymore Hotel, where there will be approximately 1,000 registered for the competition. Mrs. Claypool made 40 of the hats in red, white, green, pink, orchid and magenta.

With new costumes packed in their bags, planning to attend are: Lorida Harvey, Marie Stall, Jan Dietz, Nancy Cole and Marjorie Stover, tenors; Edith Alexander, Sonya Rose, Thea McSwegin, Dorothy Preston, Edna Wolfe and Norma Jones, baritones; Wilma Laughlin, Evelyn Richards, Jo Ann Vannoy, Bette Damaska, Mary Leeper, Kathleen Galeno and Arden Hartenbach, bass.

Edna Phelps, Madalyn Mack, June Morgan, Marian Pratley, Betty Pettibon, Vallie Mostoller, Nancy McBrien, Marge Reed, Doris Cameron, Dorothy Brdar, Mary Tarbuck, Dorothy Hamilton, Ann Ludovici, Ruth Rinehart, Florence Gloeckner, Mary Reed, Clara Hall and Mrs. Claypool, leads.

Glenn Woods, director, will be accompanied by his wife. Others planning to go are Mr. and Mrs. Dean Manning of Salineville; Seth Phelps of Lisbon, Mrs. Phyllis Moore of St. Louis and Mrs. Margaret Miller of Wellsville.

The group will leave by chartered bus Friday morning at 6, loading in the lot of the First Church of Christ.

There will be 36 chapters from Region 14 participating in the competition which begins early Saturday morning.

Some 27 quartets will compete for the three top places during the program Friday night in the main ballroom of the hotel. No local quartets have entered. Mrs. Dietz, delegate for the local group, will be mistress of ceremonies for the quartet competition.

50-Year-Old Romance Leads To Wedding Of Lisbon Pair

Culminating a romance of 50 years ago, Mrs. Velva Allmon of W. Washington St. became the bride of Emerson E. Hively of Columbiana on Sunday afternoon at 3:30 in the bride's home at Lisbon.

The Rev. William Spangler of the First Christian Church officiated for the ceremony in the presence of the immediate family and a few close friends.

Mother, 89, Attends

A wedding supper and reception followed at the church for 35 guests. The table was laid in white linen, centered with a three-tiered wedding cake decorated in pink and white and topped with a traditional miniature bride and bridegroom.

Bouquets of white carnations completed the table motif. The supper was served by members of the Loyal Women's Class, of which Mrs. Allmon has been teacher for 10 years. The class presented her with a gift.

Live In Columbiana

They will reside in the bridegroom's home in Columbiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Pribble of Wellsville Ave. visited with relatives this week, going to Athens on Friday to the home of her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Burt and family, and on Saturday to Zanesville with their daughter and granddaughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lovensheimer and family and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bunting and children. They returned home Sunday night.

22 Attend Dinner

Twenty-two were present for the family birthday dinner party held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Frase and family in Louisville. Five March birthday anniversaries were observed.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Willis McCord and Mrs. Nannie McKee of Lisbon; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hooper and family of Columbiana; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Ritchard and children, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ritchard and daughter of Alliance and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Martin of Canton.

Mrs. Robert Stacey of N. Jefferson St. spent Sunday with her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John King in Salem.

Couple Has Guests

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Keirns of Cream Ridge Rd. had as weekend guests his brother, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Keirns, and sons, Kenneth and Robert, of Columbus.

Sunday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Freshly of E. Chestnut St. were his sister, Mrs. James Jordon of Sebring, his niece, Mrs. Juanita Boron of Homeworth and their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Ulbrick of East Palestine.

Mrs. Ollie Carnes of N. Beaver St. and Mrs. George Pike of E. Pine St. visited Sunday with Mrs. Carnes' cousin, Mrs. Ida Shive in Salem.

Water Board To Study Bids For 2 Trucks

Three offers to supply two new trucks and four bids to furnish 200 tons of ready-mixed concrete, all for the water department, are under consideration today by the Board of Public Utilities.

The O. S. Hill & Co. of East Liverpool submitted the apparent low bids on trucks to replace a half-ton GMC and a three-quarter ton Chevrolet, both 1955 models.

The firm, which has its headquarters in Lisbon, offered a half-ton International at $2,369.75 with a trade of $796.75 for a net delivered price of $1,573. A power lock rear axle would be optional at $50, it said.

It submitted a bid of $2,557.25 on a three-quarter ton International with a trade of $967.25 for a net of $1,590. The power lock rear axle would cost an additional $50 and rear auxiliary springs would cost $30 more, the bid specified.

Wimmer Motor Sales asked a net of $1,755 on the half-ton and $1,875 on the three-quarter ton. Its bid listed a 1962 GMC half-ton at $2,433.20 with a trade-in of $678.20 on the present truck. A power lock rear axle would cost $50.

Mike Turk, Inc., bid $2,539.25 for a 1962 Chevrolet pickup with an allowance of $611.91 for a net of $1,927.34. It asked $2,629.25 for the three-quarter ton with a trade of $620.41 for a net of $2,008.84.

The addition of positive traction would cost $45.60 on the half-ton and $95 on the three-quarter ton.

Council appropriated a total of $12,600 for the purchases Feb. 19 with $4,600 for the two trucks and $8,000 for the sand-cement mixture for repair of the Thompson Ave. reservoir.

The Milliron Co. asked $23.20 per ton for a mix of one part concrete and two parts sand, $21.60 for a 1-3 mix, $20.20 for 1-4 and $19.60 for 1-5.

Elliott Coal Co. of Youngstown asked $24 for 1-2, $21.85 for 1-3, and $20.90 for either 1-4 or 1-5.

Campbell Dry Mix of Pennsylvania, Inc., of Fredonia submitted a bid of 98 cents a bag for 80-pound bags based on the released of at least 10 tons at a time. The board said it figured out to $24.26 per ton for any type of mix.

Parsons Coal Co. asked $14.90 per ton for a 4-sack mix, $15.55 for a 5½ sack mix and $16.20 for a 6-sack mix. However, the board learned later that is a bulk rate and delivered in a mixer truck.

The mixture will be used to repair the smaller of the two basins at the Thompson Ave. reservoir, using a gun to force the combination mixed with water on top of wire reinforcing mesh.

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — A West Virginia girl and a Missouri boy were named winners today in the Elks national youth leadership contest in which more than 50,000 high school students participated.

The winners are Lorraine R. Foster, 17, of Barrackville, W. Va., and Norman E. Fretwell, 17, of Joplin, Mo. Both will receive $1,000 U. S. Savings Bonds and a trip to the Elks convention in Chicago next July.

E. Gene Founace of Canton, a member of the Youth Activities Committee of the Elks, said the teen-agers were judged on their leadership records in school and community activities. Competition was on local and state levels, with state winners qualifying for the national finals.

Hall's Seats, Walls Due Cleaning In Fire

CLEVELAND (AP)—The 1,800 seats in Severance Hall will have to be cleaned and many walls may have to be scrubbed in the wake of a fire in an air conditioner Monday.

The blaze caused damage estimated by fire officials at only $200 to $300 to the air conditioner, but the heavy, oily smoke that was sent through the building smudged walls, pictures and seats. About 100 members of the Cleveland Orchestra who had been practicing for the Thursday evening concert left the building.

MUSKOGEE MIRACLE

It happened in the schools of Muskogee, Oklahoma, when 6,557 youngsters took simple tests to measure their physical fitness. Result: 3,043 failed.

But after only six weeks of supervised vigorous physical activity, 78.9 percent passed—and learned how much fun it is to exercise and keep fit.

Does your child's school have a supervised physical education program that gets the kids—boys and girls—to exercise vigorously at least 15 minutes every day?

If not, it's up to you to see that such a program is started. The sooner, the better. Act at your next PTA meeting!

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Bored Singer Causes Parental Blues

When you go to a public program in which your child participates, are you an appreciative auditor and spectator? Does your presence make it easier or harder for your child to perform? An Ohio mother writes: "My son, seven, is not talented but can sing as well as any other boy in his Sunday school class. His teacher has the small class sing at several programs every year. Even though he knows the song and sings it well at home, he certainly is a 'dummy' at the program. He acts bored, yawns, scratches, coughs, twists, etc. In fact, he does everything except stand still and sing.

Dr. Garry Meyers

"HE DID THIS tonight in a song with two other boys. It embarrassed me to tears after I returned home.

"Should I punish him when he doesn't sing, or should I keep him out of songs? I prefer to do the latter, but feel it may do him harm later. If I don't allow him to sing, he would be the only one in the class who has to 'sit it out'.

"We have lived in the hope that he would one day sing enough to keep us from being ashamed of him and at the same time gain experience of appearing before the public."

My reply in part:

Being a parent and a grandparent, I can understand how you felt when you saw your child on that program acting as you say he did.

I AM SURE the lad felt self-conscious and embarrassed and was unable to do his best or show that he was interested. This is why he yawned, scratched, coughed and twisted.

If you and Dad had not been there he might have felt comfortable and done well. But knowing you were so fearful that he might not do well and sensing your displeasure over his possible poor performance, he felt and did worse and worse.

No doubt he kept wondering all the while what you were going to say to him when he arrived home.

Next time you and Dad hear and see him on such a program, try to act proud of him and not let yourself feel the least embarrassed if he does not measure up to your fondest expectation.

EVERY TIME YOU see him do anything reasonably well at Sunday school, school or at home of the nature you referred to, be sure and express your pride and enthusiasm.

Please don't hope and wish he will sing in public well enough to keep you parents from feeling ashamed of him. Don't be so self-centered.

Think first of his success and happiness. Then you will escape embarrassment and gain pride and satisfaction.

Firm Sales Sales Up For '61; Earnings Dip

CLEVELAND (AP) — The proposed merger of the Bishop & Babcock Manufacturing Co. of Cleveland and the Prestrole Corp. of Toledo has been approved by the boards of each.

An announcement from B & B Monday said competition of the deal will require approval of stockholders of both companies at special meetings. The B & B meeting is set for April 4.

B & B until recently manufactured heater cores for the automotive industry, and recently ended the activities of its electronics subsidiary. Prestrole founded in 1946, makes and sells industrial fasteners.

The announcement said combined net worth after the merger will be around $2.3 million.

Motorist 'Saves' $40 With Excuse In Court

Because he had a legitimate reason, a Toronto man saved $40 Monday in Municipal Court.

When Hayward Dawson Tolley of R. D. 2 failed to appear on a charge of improper plates during traffic court yesterday morning, Judge Samuel M. Chertoff ordered his $57.50 bond forfeited.

Tolley appeared following court, explained he had attempted to contact the judge to inform the court he would be late but court already was in session.

Accepting his excuse, Judge Chertoff vacated the forfeiture and fined Tolley $10 and $7.50 costs.

12 Plants List Increases In Payroll, Jobs

Healthy upturns marked several East Liverpool district indices in February, most notably increases in payrolls and total employment at 12 area industrial plants, the Chamber of Commerce pointed out today in its monthly summary of conditions.

Payrolls at the 12 plants hit $1,237,226 last month, up 10.4 per cent from the $1,120,800 shown in January. The payrolls total $2,385,026 for the year to date, a gain of 12.9 per cent from the $2,088,997 listed in the first two months of 1961.

The plants had 3,933 on the job in February, a gain of 5.6 per cent from the 3,724 employes they listed in January. Employment has averaged 3,829 monthly to date in 1962, off 0.03 per cent from the 3,840 average shown at the same time in 1961.

The gain in employment was accompanied by a leveling off in the city's relief load. The city listed 92 cases receiving aid in February, unchanged from January. The case load has averaged 92 per month to date in 1962, down 28.1 per cent from the average of 128 shown at the same time in 1961.

District dams locked through 897 tows in the first two months of the year, a boost of 56.3 per cent from the 574 reported at the same time in 1961. February river traffic saw 443 tows, a drop of 2.4 per cent from January's 454.

The river traffic in the first two months of the year represents 3,228,650 tons of cargo, a boost of 61 per cent from the 1,941,650 tons shown at the same time in 1961. February tonnage was 1,491,250, down 8.9 per cent from the 1,636,800 shown in January.

Bank debits stand at $6,512,323 for the first two months of the year, up 9.4 per cent from the $5,952,970 shown at the same time in 1961. In February, they totaled $2,982,995, down 15 per cent from January's $3,529,328.

Bank debits averaged $21,654,060 for the first two months of 1962, up 7.4 per cent from the average of $20,155,116 shown at the same time in 1961. They hit $20,335,163 in February, off 11 per cent from the $22,972,957 shown in January.

The city's parking meter receipts totaled $4,206 in February, a gain of 4.8 per cent from January's $4,015. They stand at $8,221 for the first two months of the year, down one per cent from the $8,303 shown at the same time in 1961.

Unique 'Pottery Hats' To Help Publicize City

East Liverpool's claim to fame as the "Pottery Center of the World" will be emphasized in unusual headgear which 36 members of Sweet Adelines, Inc., will wear next weekend at Atlantic City, where they will go to take part in the organization's annual competition.

Mrs. Ann Claypool is shown with the hat she designed, emblematic of the pottery city. It is made of two simple items, felt and elastic. The cup and saucer, perched on the flower petals, will identify the chorus during "off-stage" hours at the Traymore Hotel, where there will be approximately 1,000 registered for the competition. Mrs. Claypool made 40 of the hats in red, white, green, pink, orchid and magenta.

With new costumes packed in their bags, planning to attend are: Lorida Harvey, Marie Stall, Jan Dietz, Nancy Cole and Marjorie Stover, tenors; Edith Alexander, Sonya Rose, Thea McSwegin, Dorothy Preston, Edna Wolfe and Norma Jones, baritones; Wilma Laughlin, Evelyn Richards, Jo Ann Vannoy, Bette Damaska, Mary Leeper, Kathleen Galeno and Arden Hartenbach, bass.

Glenn Woods, director, will be accompanied by his wife. Others planning to go are Mr. and Mrs. Dean Manning of Salineville; Seth Phelps of Lisbon, Mrs. Phyllis Moore of St. Louis and Mrs. Margaret Miller of Wellsville.

The group will leave by chartered bus Friday morning at 6, loading in the lot of the First Church of Christ.

Some 27 quartets will compete for the three top places during the program Friday night in the main ballroom of the hotel. No local quartets have entered. Mrs. Dietz, delegate for the local group, will be mistress of ceremonies for the quartet competition.

Culminating a romance of 50 years ago, Mrs. Velva Allmon of W. Washington St. became the bride of Emerson E. Hively of Columbiana on Sunday afternoon at 3:30 in the bride's home at Lisbon.

Bouquets of white carnations completed the table motif. The supper was served by members of the Loyal Women's Class, of which Mrs. Allmon has been teacher for 10 years. The class presented her with a gift.

Water Board To Study Bids For 2 Trucks

Three offers to supply two new trucks and four bids to furnish 200 tons of ready-mixed concrete, all for the water department, are under consideration today by the Board of Public Utilities.

The bids were opened late Monday morning by the board, which administers the water department.

The O. S. Hill & Co. of East Liverpool submitted the apparent low bids on trucks to replace a half-ton GMC and a three-quarter ton Chevrolet, both 1955 models.

The firm, which has its headquarters in Lisbon, offered a half-ton International at $2,369.75 with a trade of $796.75 for a net delivered price of $1,573. A power lock rear axle would be optional at $50, it said.

It submitted a bid of $2,557.25 on a three-quarter ton International with a trade of $967.25 for a net of $1,590. The power lock rear axle would cost an additional $50 and rear auxiliary springs would cost $30 more, the bid specified.

Wimmer Motor Sales asked a net of $1,755 on the half-ton and $1,875 on the three-quarter ton. Its bid listed a 1962 GMC half-ton at $2,433.20 with a trade-in of $678.20 on the present truck. A power lock rear axle would cost $50.

The price of the three-quarter ton GMC was listed at $2,628.55 with an allowance of $753.55 on the present model.

Mike Turk, Inc., bid $2,539.25 for a 1962 Chevrolet pickup with an allowance of $611.91 for a net of $1,927.34. It asked $2,629.25 for the three-quarter ton with a trade of $620.41 for a net of $2,008.84.

The addition of positive traction would cost $45.60 on the half-ton and $95 on the three-quarter ton.

Council appropriated a total of $12,600 for the purchases Feb. 19 with $4,600 for the two trucks and $8,000 for the sand-cement mixture for repair of the Thompson Ave. reservoir.

The Milliron Co. asked $23.20 per ton for a mix of one part concrete and two parts sand, $21.60 for a 1-3 mix, $20.20 for 1-4 and $19.60 for 1-5.

Elliott Coal Co. of Youngstown asked $24 for 1-2, $21.85 for 1-3, and $20.90 for either 1-4 or 1-5.

Campbell Dry Mix of Pennsylvania, Inc., of Fredonia submitted a bid of 98 cents a bag for 80-pound bags based on the released of at least 10 tons at a time. The board said it figured out to $24.26 per ton for any type of mix.

Parsons Coal Co. asked $14.90 per ton for a 4-sack mix, $15.55 for a 5½ sack mix and $16.20 for a 6-sack mix. However, the board learned later that is a bulk rate and delivered in a mixer truck.

The mixture will be used to repair the smaller of the two basins at the Thompson Ave. reservoir, using a gun to force the combination mixed with water on top of wire reinforcing mesh.

Hall's Seats, Walls Due Cleaning In Fire

CLEVELAND (AP)—The 1,800 seats in Severance Hall will have to be cleaned and many walls may have to be scrubbed in the wake of a fire in an air conditioner Monday.

The blaze caused damage estimated by fire officials at only $200 to $300 to the air conditioner, but the heavy, oily smoke that was sent through the building smudged walls, pictures and seats. About 100 members of the Cleveland Orchestra who had been practicing for the Thursday evening concert left the building.

MUSKOGEE MIRACLE

It happened in the schools of Muskogee, Oklahoma, when 6,557 youngsters took simple tests to measure their physical fitness. Result: 3,043 failed.

But after only six weeks of supervised vigorous physical activity, 78.9 percent passed—and learned how much fun it is to exercise and keep fit.

Does your child's school have a supervised physical education program that gets the kids—boys and girls—to exercise vigorously at least 15 minutes every day?

If not, it's up to you to see that such a program is started. The sooner, the better. Act at your next PTA meeting!

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Bored Singer Causes Parental Blues

When you go to a public program in which your child participates, are you an appreciative auditor and spectator? Does your presence make it easier or harder for your child to perform? An Ohio mother writes: "My son, seven, is not talented but can sing as well as any other boy in his Sunday school class. His teacher has the small class sing at several programs every year. Even though he knows the song and sings it well at home, he certainly is a 'dummy' at the program. He acts bored, yawns, scratches, coughs, twists, etc. In fact, he does everything except stand still and sing.

"HE DID THIS tonight in a song with two other boys. It embarrassed me to tears after I returned home.

"Should I punish him when he doesn't sing, or should I keep him out of songs? I prefer to do the latter, but feel it may do him harm later. If I don't allow him to sing, he would be the only one in the class who has to 'sit it out'.

"We have lived in the hope that he would one day sing enough to keep us from being ashamed of him and at the same time gain experience of appearing before the public."

My reply in part:

Being a parent and a grandparent, I can understand how you felt when you saw your child on that program acting as you say he did.

I AM SURE the lad felt self-conscious and embarrassed and was unable to do his best or show that he was interested. This is why he yawned, scratched, coughed and twisted.

If you and Dad had not been there he might have felt comfortable and done well. But knowing you were so fearful that he might not do well and sensing your displeasure over his possible poor performance, he felt and did worse and worse.

No doubt he kept wondering all the while what you were going to say to him when he arrived home.

Don't consider trying to keep that boy off such programs. Express great pleasure when you know he is to appear.

Next time you and Dad hear and see him on such a program, try to act proud of him and not let yourself feel the least embarrassed if he does not measure up to your fondest expectation.

EVERY TIME YOU see him do anything reasonably well at Sunday school, school or at home of the nature you referred to, be sure and express your pride and enthusiasm.

Please don't hope and wish he will sing in public well enough to keep you parents from feeling ashamed of him. Don't be so self-centered.

Think first of his success and happiness. Then you will escape embarrassment and gain pride and satisfaction.

Motorist 'Saves' $40 With Excuse In Court

Because he had a legitimate reason, a Toronto man saved $40 Monday in Municipal Court.

When Hayward Dawson Tolley of R. D. 2 failed to appear on a charge of improper plates during traffic court yesterday morning, Judge Samuel M. Chertoff ordered his $57.50 bond forfeited.

Tolley appeared following court, explained he had attempted to contact the judge to inform the court he would be late but court already was in session.

Accepting his excuse, Judge Chertoff vacated the forfeiture and fined Tolley $10 and $7.50 costs.
